40% OF ELDERLY IN INDIA ARE IN POOREST WEALTH QUINTILE: U.N.

More than 40% of the elderly in India are in the poorest wealth quintile 'or one-fifth of the total' with about 18.7% of them living without income

WOMEN LIFE EXPECTANCY JUMPS BY 19 YEARS

This level of poverty among the elderly may affect their quality of life and healthcare utilisation, according to the UNFPA's India Ageing Report 2023. At 60 years, a person in India may expect to live another 18.3 years, which is higher in case of females at 19 years as compared to males at 17.5 years, the report's findings show

OLDER WOMEN ARE AT RECEIVING END

- Poverty is inherently gendered in old age when older women are more likely to be widowed, living alone, with no income and with fewer assets of their own, and fully dependent on family for support
- Incidence of widowhood and higher life expectancy among older women are key demographic characteristics in India, says report

Security personnel fire tear gas shells as students protest against the killing of two Meitei youth by unknown miscreants in Imphal on Wednesday | PTI

AFSPA extended in Manipur hills for six months

PRASANTA MAZUMDAR @Guwahati

AMID raging protests by students against the kidnapping and killing of two Meitei youths, the Manipur government on Wednesday extended the Armed Forces (Special Powers) Act, or AFSPA, for another six months in the state barring 19 police stations in the Imphal valley and another area near the Assam border.

A government notification said the state government took the decision after analysing the law and order situation.

"The Governor hereby accords approval to declare the entire state of Manipur, excluding the areas falling under the jurisdiction of the 19 police stations... as disturbed area for a period of six months with effect from October 1, 2023," the notification read.

With the extension of AFSPA, the Army and Assam Rifles cannot operate inside the areas under the 19 police stations without the consent of the state police. According to reports, security officials have been pushing for bringing the entire state under AFSPA so that they could effectively tackle the terror groups.

Protests by school students continued on Wednesday in Imphal, with some of them burning the effigy of Manipur Chief Minister N Biren Singh. Many uniform-wearing students, including girls, were injured when police used force to disperse them.

In another incident, an irate mob set ablaze a BJP mandal office In Thoubal district.

The authorities clamped complete curfew in Imphal East and Imphal West districts. Curfew was earlier only at night.

The fresh trouble broke out on Tuesday after photos of two missing students surfaced on social media. In one photo, the two are seen with two armed men. Another photo showed their bodies with the head of one student missing. The CBI is probing this case.

Security agencies say banned terror outfits are trying to form their base in Imphal valley. The terrorists also mingle with protesters to create trouble, they warn

Don't cut consent age: Law panel

Report submitted to law ministry recommends keeping it at 18 despite SC push to revisit it

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

AMID a raging debate on the criminalisation of adolescent sex, the 22nd Law Commission, in its report, has opposed reducing the minimum age of consent from 18 to 16 under the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act, it was learnt. The Commission submitted its report to the Union Law Ministry on Wednesday.

"The Commission made several recommendations in the report. The panel is not in favour of lowering the minimum age of consent from 18 to 16 under the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act," said an official, who is familiar with the developments.

The POCSO Act, 2012, criminalises all sexual activities for those under 18, even if there is consent between the two minors. The minimum age of consent for sexual intercourse was raised from 16 to 18 years in November 2012. The POCSO Act says that any sexual activity with or without the woman's consent if she is below 18 will be considered as 'rape'.

In the recent past, the higher judiciary, including the Supreme Court, as also civil society organisations had raised concerns over criminalisation of consensual relationships between adolescents.

Raising concerns over the rise in the number of cases under the POCSO Act where consenting adolescents engage in sexual activity, Chief Justice of India D Y Chandrachud had urged the legislature to review the age of consent under the 2012 Act.

Several NGOs and activists have also approached courts to review the POCSO Act, 2012.

According to a study on underage marriage cases from 2008 to 2017 in India by 'Partners for Law in Development', most cases were initiated by parents against marriages self-arranged by their daughters. In these cases, the husband may be jailed for up to 20 years under the POCSO law.

A large number of consenting couples, even those who are married, are being prosecuted under POCSO.

According to another study by the National Law School of India University, in several cases, most girls between 16 and 18 years of age declined to testify against the accused under the POCSO Act.

NIA goes after K-gang, raids 53 places in 6 states

HARPREET BAJWA @Chandigarh

THE National Investigation Agency (NIA) on Wednesday conducted raids at 53 locations in six states — Punjab, Haryana, Delhi-NCR, Rajasthan, Uttarakhand, Uttar Pradesh — and Chandigarh and detained several suspects connected to a bunch of Canada-based gangsters.

The gangsters include Arsh Dalla, Lawrence Bishnoi, Sukha Duneke, Harry Maur, Narender alias Lali, Kala Jatheri and Deepak Tinu.

Pistols, ammunition, digital devices and materials were seized during the day-long raids. These were the seventh in the series of such crackdowns launched by NIA following the registration of five cases since August 2022, including two new cases registered in July this year. The cases relate to conspiracies of targeted killings, funding for pro-Khalistan outfits and extortion by the gangsters.

Wednesday's action focused on weapon suppliers, financiers and logistics providers associated with various hardcore gangs working with drug smugglers and terror outfits based in Pakistan, the UAE, Canada, Portugal and other countries.

No need for 'one poll' ratification: Panel

Framework to hold them together

The previous law panel has worked out a complete framework and a timetable to synchronise assembly elections in all states with that of Lok Sabha to be held in 2019 and 2024

PREETHA NAIR @ New Delhi

THE 22nd Law Commission in its report may suggest that ratification by states of Constitutional amendments to facilitate simultaneous polls is not necessary. Top sources told this newspaper that the synchronisation of elections to the Lok Sabha and state assemblies will require amendments in the relevant provisions of the Constitution and certain provisions of other statutes as well.

While ratification by the states to these Constitutional amendments was perceived as the stumbling block to implement the proposal, the source said that the Law Commission doesn't view it necessary for the states to ratify the amendments. "Ratification by states may not be required," said the official.

The previous law panel had said though the proposed amendments do not fall within the purview of proviso to clause (2) of Article 368 the government may seek ratification by at least 50% of the states.

Karnataka nets ₹312.84 crore stamp duty fee in a single day

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

THE Stamps and Registration Department, through its 256 sub-registrars' offices across the State, collected a whopping Rs 312,84,53,840 as stamp duty and registration fees on Wednesday.

In all, 24,614 documents related to properties were registered in a single day for the first time in the State. The rush for registration of properties is due to the new property guidance value coming into effect on October 1.

Inspector-General of Registration and Commissioner of Stamps Mamatha BR told The New Indian Express that the previous high was recorded on September 22 with a revenue collection of Rs 158.28 crore. Documents pertaining to 15,936 properties were registered then. "We never crossed the Rs 200-crore mark in revenue collection in the past. But we breached the Rs 300-crore mark on Wednesday.

Draft notification: Respondents for further hike in guidance value

They want it to go up by 60% since the last revision was done five years ago, says official

S LALITHA @ Bengaluru

IN all, 43 objections have been received from property owners to the draft revised guidance value for Bangalore Metropolitan Region Development Area (BMRDA). The draft gazette notification was issued on September 8.

Most of them have demanded that the guidance value be increased more than what has been proposed. The deadline for submitting objections ended on September 23. The new guidance value will come into effect on October 1.

"Of the 43 respondents, 25 favoured a much higher guidance value than what we have announced. We proposed an average hike of 30%. But they want it to go up by 60% since the last revision was done five years ago. According to them, it should be in tune with the prevailing market value," Inspector-General of Registration and Commissioner of Stamps Mamatha BR told The New Indian Express.

Property owners want a higher value as it would help them when they sell their properties. It would also help them while taking loans by pledging their properties, said an official.

"Even, they don't mind paying a higher property tax," Mamatha said.

Revenue Minister Krishna Byre Gowda said, "The public response proves these points -- the revision proposed by us is a modest one and so people have accepted it, the higher value sought by most respondents proves that the need for a revision of the guidance value is justified, and there existed a huge gap between the market value of a property and the guidance value."

Asked if the objections of the respondents will be considered, the minister said there is a central evaluation committee to examine them. "The committee members have almost completed their analysis of most of the submissions and we will take them into account. We are keen on implementing the revised guidance value on October 1," he added.

SV Shivaram, who filed his objections, said the Rs 1.5-lakh/sqm hike in guidance value announced for the stretch between Silk Board and Banashankari (up from the previous 62,000/sqm) is inadequate. This stretch records numerous transactions and hence, it should be hiked to Rs 2 lakh/sqm, he added.

Hanumantha Gowda, another respondent, said the Rs 33-lakh per acre guidance value for Hoskote-Nangudi area (up from Rs 22 lakh) should have been revised to Rs 40 lakh.

Owners of properties in old localities in the city feel that the guidance value is high. Taking depreciation into account, the guidance value should have been reduced. A property owner at Mittal Towers was among those who favoured this.

THE citizen-friendly Kaveri 2 software, which ensures that most of the work is completed online from home with only a 10-minute job at the sub-registrar's office, is the main reason for this achievement," Inspector-General of Registration and Commissioner of Stamps Mamatha BR said.

From October 1, the guidance value of properties will go up by 30%. This will lead to an increase in stamp duty and registration fees. Anticipating more rush, the department had asked its sub-registrars' offices to work from 8 am to 8 pm from September 22 to September 30.

"We worked even during the bandh on Tuesday and nearly 12,000 properties were registered that day," Mamatha said.

Revenue Minister Krishna Byre Gowda said, "No other State managed to collect this big amount through property registration in a single day. Adoption of Kaveri 2 software helped us handle such huge volumes. It has removed the human interface in the process. Doubts over the success of the system have been cleared now."

EID MILAD

Maintain calm, decorum, appeal Muslim leaders

MOHAMMED YACOOB @Bengaluru

WITH Eid Milad to be celebrated on Thursday, Muslim leaders have appealed to the community to take out "decent" processions without disturbing the public. Maqsood Imran Rashadi, chief priest of Jamia Masjid in City Market, held sermons last Friday and appealed to 3,000 mosques across Karnataka to tell the community about the importance of Eid Milad.

"As per Islamic beliefs, the community believes that Prophet Muhammed was born on this day and hence they take out processions. Now, we see that during processions, loudspeakers playing music are used, youth play with fire and block roads. All these practices bring a bad image to the community and hence I have asked the community leaders to ensure that these are curbed," said Rashadi.

Wakf Board Chairman Anwar Basha said he has directed all institutions like dargahs and masjids that come under the board's ambit to have meaningful celebrations like 'Naath' (recitation of verses of Quran) and songs in praise of Prophet Muhammad. "We have given strict orders not to have any type of DJ music in processions, which should be wound up at the earliest," Basha said.

TRAFFIC ADVISORY

The traffic police have issued an advisory for Ulsoor gate traffic police station limits from 3 pm to 9 pm on Thursday. The routes to be avoided include Nrupathunga Road, BR Ambedkar Road, Nayanadanahalli Junction, Kimko Junction, Bapuji Nagar, and Market Circle.

Trevor Noah's show in B'luru cancelled over bad acoustics

DESE GOWDA @ Bengaluru

THE Bengaluru leg of South African comedian and TV host Trevor Noah's stand-up tour was cancelled on Wednesday evening, following persistent technical issues.

The much-anticipated show titled, 'Off the Record', had attracted thousands of fans from across south India and elsewhere. Following a successful run in Delhi earlier this month, the Bengaluru leg of the show, held at Manpho Convention Centre in Nagavara, was supposed to feature an opening act from New York-based comedian Wilner Sylvince, followed by Noah.

However, the show faced sound issues from the start, causing an uproar at the venue. Within minutes, the performance was halted. Noah himself got onto the stage and tried to fix the issues. But after multiple attempts, the promoters were unable to find a solution. A frustrated Noah offered the audience an apology and announced that he wouldn't be going ahead with the performance.

Nearly an hour-and-a-half after the show was originally supposed to kick off, the audience were finally informed that it would be cancelled.

"I was looking forward to the show. I had booked the tickets three months in advance. This was on a working day as well, so I had to take leave from the office and get here a couple of hours before the show was supposed to start. All of that only to see the show getting cancelled. But I guess the only positive thing was that we saw him on stage. That's the only positive takeaway I have from this experience," said Rohit from Bengaluru.

Similarly, three fans of Noah, who had come all the way from Sri Lanka for the show, expressed their frustration at the promoters. "It's a bit annoying because the sound team had one job to do and they didn't do it," one of them said. "I had a lot of people tell me that the acoustics at the venue are bad. But since this was a stand-up comedy show, I thought it would be okay. But I was proven wrong," said another fan who had come from Goa.

Rhea Karuturi, a Bengalurean, said, "It's really sad. This is not a venue that can host any kind of comedy show. They don't have any ventilation, and I don't know why they didn't do a sound check prior to the show. Given that this is in Bengaluru, the tech city, it's just embarrassing. Trevor Noah too tried to fix the issues, but him having to do that in the first place looks really bad on the promoters of the show."

The promoters of Off the Record did not respond to TNIE's call for comment.

Wilson Garden tragedy: ₹5 lakh ex-gratia given to woman's family

BENGALURU: Officials of the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) on Wednesday gave an ex-gratia of Rs 5 lakh to the family members of the woman who died after an electric pole fell on her in Wilson Garden on Monday night. Hemavathi Harsha, 37, suffered severe head injuries and died in hospital due to excessive bleeding. The incident happened on 8th cross road near Jain Temple when she was feeding her daughter in front of her house. A huge tree fell on the electric pole after the locality received heavy rain in the evening. Seeing the pole coming down, Hemavathi rushed to rescue her daughter who was playing near it. By the time she reached there, the pole fell on her. Her daughter was also injured in the incident. Trees pruned Officials of the BBMP Forest Cell pruned the branches of trees in the locality on Wednesday morning following complaints from the residents. According to members of the Wilson Garden Residents' Welfare Association, 10 trees were pruned in their locality. PETER VIDAL

28TH September: Most people get confused by the difference between astronomy and astrology. That's not surprising, because even astrologers and astronomers often can't agree on the difference. The difference lies in the small details, like the fact that the planetary pattern which currently indicates a huge chance for renewal and rebirth is one which you'd never recognise if you looked at the sky.

ARIES (Mar 21 - Apr. 20)
If important discussions are underway, or if travel plans are being considered, the current planetary alignment is urging you to seize the initiative and prove that you are not afraid to take on people and institutions which have had you on the run for so long. Also, it's a fine moment to make amends for past failures - or pluck up the courage to say you're sorry!

TAURUS (Apr. 21 - May 21)
Once again, you have the chance to make up your mind. Don't allow others to influence your judgment. Your most precious possession at the moment is your ability to take decisions which are both logically and instinctively correct, no matter what other people say.

GEMINI (May 22 - June 21)
Mercury, planet of wit and wisdom, is suggesting that you feel the need to get to grips with profound deep psychological questions. You are becoming more familiar with the deep motivations that direct your daily affairs. Gradually, you're more and more aware of influences you never dreamt existed.

CANCER (June 22 - July 23)
Mars is an excitable planet, and its presence reveals that there might have been an almighty bust-up recently. Perhaps you were called upon to restore order, and you should soon find yourself back in favour with people whose opinion of you matters a great deal. Still, when the chips are down, you have no choice but to stand up for yourself.

LEO (July 24 - Aug. 23)
Challenging planetary aspects recently have fired your imagination and made it plain that there's only one person who can guarantee your success, and that's you. Now you have one last chance to retake an important decision. Don't waste your time on people who seem to be standing in your way.

VIRGO (Aug. 24 - Sept. 23)
It seems that you may well have been sacrificing your resources defending something which is no longer viable, or at least which has no more to contribute to your personal success. You must now consider the advantages of making a fresh start.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 - Oct. 23)
Happily, business and professional affairs dovetail nicely, and you'd be strongly advised to follow hunches and listen to your intuition. Ideas of romance are also in the air, adding a lighter touch to the day's events, and a secret flirtation is now a very real possibility.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22)
In financial matters you must listen to partners carefully, as their ideas are proving more inspiring with each day that passes. Yet don't allow yourself to be led astray by those who are intent on exploiting your good nature or foisting their responsibilities onto your shoulders.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 - Dec. 22)
Under Mars' alignment with a money-minded sector of your horoscope, financial enterprises are still likely to be the subject of some stiff negotiations. You'll be surprisingly business-like, and your new-found strength of confidence may catch partners off guard.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 23 - Jan. 20)
Important personal decisions are looming and tricky decisions will have to be taken quite soon. You are now in the closing phase of a long-term emotional transformation, one which has seen you link up with important new people. Plus, you're about to receive the recognition you deserve at work.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 - Feb. 19)
Today's events may come close to calling your broader ambitions and long-term objectives into question. The results will be positive if you manage to focus on what is important, make a clean break with the past - and set off on a new course of action.

PISCES (Feb. 20 - Mar 20)
Perhaps you should now look ahead to the weekend and plan carefully. The next few days will bring exciting events which affect your financial future. Cash transactions should be treated with caution, so please seek out a second opinion if you wish to make a profit.

Madhya Pradesh ▶ On the transformation path

From Heartland to Economic Hub

Madhya Pradesh Emerges As Investment Gem, Ready To Take-off

Madhya pradesh is a story of transformation, an emerging investment gem where opportunity meets ambition, and where the heartland beats in harmony with the demands of the future

In the unfolding narrative of India's economic resurgence, Madhya Pradesh (MP) has emerged as a strategic linchpin, orchestrating a remarkable transformation into an investment haven and a flourishing industrial dynamo. This evolution isn't fortuitous, it's a calculated symphony achieved through strategic planning, leveraging geograph ical advantages, and pioneering policies. that are scripting a saga of economic ascendancy.

Its abundant wealth of natural resources also plays a key role. With 11 distinct agro-climate zones, the state's diversity extends beyond industries to agriculture. The treasure trove of mineral wealth, encom- passing iron ore, diamonds, copper are, manganese ore, bauxite, limestone, coal, marble, and granite, solidifies its potential Significantly, it's the sole diamond-producing state in India with operational mines, under- scoring its multifaceted resource profile. Amidst this, a consistent power supply exceeding 25,400+ MW adds a dynamic dimension to the state's allure. Water, the elixir of industries, finds its abundance in Madhya Pradesh's lap.

With an impressive river network, a single river alone provides a whopping 900 million cubic metres of water, exclusively reserved. for industrial needs. These abundant resourc- es harmonise with mineral wealth, providing the impetus for accelerated industrial growth. Leveraging this strong foundation, Madhya Pradesh has adeptly established industrial hubs across each of the 52 districts, comple- mented by sector-specific parks tailored to industries like manufacturing, IT, and textiles.

The gross domestic product of MP is estimated to be 13 lakh, 22 thousand, and 821 crore rupees. It was 71 thousand 594 crore in the year 2001-02. Thus, the gross domestic product (GSDP) has increased by more than 18 times between then and now.

> We are working towards building an Atmanirbhar Madhya Pradesh for Atmanirbhar Bharat. Our roadmap is ready, and the MP government is working in collaboration with industry to make this possible.

> Shivraj Singh Chouhan
> CM, Madhya Pradesh

This strategic infrastructure drive has mor phed the state into a haven for enterprises spanning sectors. Bolstered by well-connect- ed transportation networks and a reliable power grid, Madhya Pradesh is undoubtedly cementing its position as a preferred des- tination for investors seeking an environ ment conducive to business expansion. This economic evolution places an ex ceptional focus on nurturing micro, small, and medium enterprises (MSMEs), the bedrock of a thriving economy. With a vast network of 195 industrial areas sprawling across 6229 hectares, Madhya Pradesh has sculpted a nurturing ecosystem for emerging enterprises.

Central to the industrial renaissance remains MP's strategic geographical location. Nestled at the crossroads of India, the state's positioning makes it a nucleus of connectivity, seamlessly connecting with five neighbour- ing states and capturing 50% of the country's population. It's not just proximity but also access that defines the advantage. With seamless road connectivity and the convergence of east-west and north-south corridors. Madhya Pradesh stands woven into the intricate tapestry of the nation's trade routes. Excellent connectivity to major ports in the country is a major differentiator, giving seamless access to a huge market.

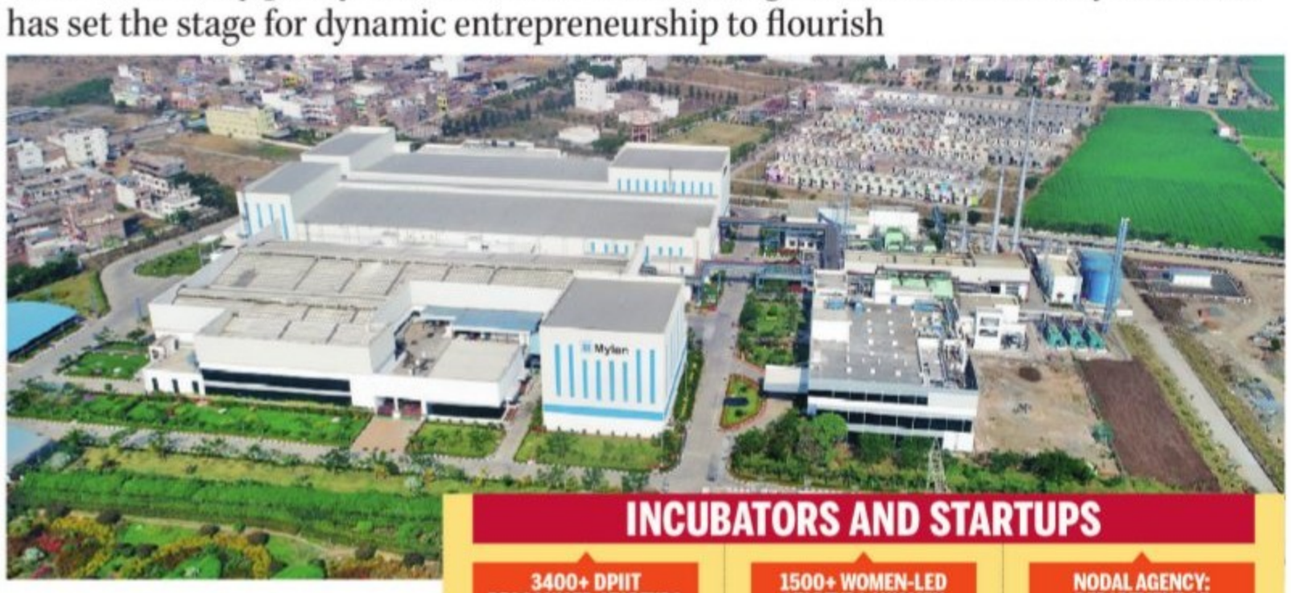
Streamlined land allocation processes and business-friendly regulations expedite entry, fostering an ecosystem ripe for innovation and sustainable growth. This symphony of strategic geography, visionary policies, robust infrastructure, and abundant natural resources posi- tions Madhya Pradesh as a beacon for businesses aiming for expansion and investors scouting untapped potential.

As the state scribes its economic renaissance, it beckons not only to enrich. its own economic tapestry but also to il luminate India's relentless trajectory to- wards prosperity. Visible, the impressive surge of 16.43 percent in per capita in- come during FY 2022-23 stands as a tes tament to its dynamic economic trajectory. Furthermore, the surge in new indus- tries and an influx of investments, at- tributed to business-friendly policies, not only fuel the state's growth but also leave an indelible mark on the national GDP.

Fueling innovation

MP's Startup Revolution Spurs Dynamic Entrepreneurship with Visionary Policies!

With a visionary policy framework and unwavering commitment, Madhya Pradesh has set the stage for dynamic entrepreneurship to flourish



The Shivraj Singh Chouhan government's role has been pivotal in propelling the startup ecosystem. Since the launch of the startup policy, the growth trajectory has been remarkable. Recognised startups have surged by an impressive 74.3%, reflecting the efficacy of the policy's measures. Moreover, women-led startups have skyrocketed by 93.6%, highlighting the state's focus on diversity and inclusivity. The growth of incubators has been equally impressive, registering an 81.2% surge, signifying the congenial environment for the state's evolution into an innovation hub.

At the heart of this revolution lies a supportive infrastructure. Over 55 incubators, including renowned Atal and STPI Incubation centres, bolster the entrepreneurial spirit. Fi- nancial assistance of Rs 5 lakh for incubators, alongside event support, amplifies their crucial role in nurturing startups.

The policy's impact extends beyond monetary assistance. The benefits for recognised startups encompass self-certification, patent applications, income tax exemptions, and streamlined winding-up procedures, show- casing a holistic approach to empowering startups.

Madhya Pradesh's commitment to startups transcends financing, extending to hands-on aid. Startups can receive up to Rs 15 lakh investment assistance, further encouraging their growth journey. Exclusive support for product-based startups through exemptions and employment generation assistance under- scores the state's dedication to their success.

The government's role in fostering MSMEs is equally significant, offering up to 40% sub- sidies for industrial development, along with concessions for marginalised segments and support for patents and quality certification.

Infrastructure development is yet another facet of this transformative journey. Substantial assistance for industrial premises, along with setup support, showcases the state's commit- ment to creating an enabling ecosystem for startups.

The potent synergy of visionary policy and resolute governmental commitment is starting to bear fruit.

Cauvery: BJP, JDS stage joint protest, slam Congress govt

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

FOR the first time after BJP and JDS announced that they are forging an alliance ahead of the 2024 Lok Sabha polls, the top leaders from both parties on Wednesday jointly protested against the release of Cauvery water to Tamil Nadu.

Former chief ministers and senior BJP leaders BS Yediyurappa, DV Sadananda Gowda, and former CM and JDS leader HD Kumaraswamy staged a protest demonstration along with legislators and leaders from both parties, at the Mahatma Gandhi statue on the Vidhana Soudha premises.

Yediyurappa said that in the Cauvery water-sharing issue, the Congress government in Karnataka is working like an agent of Tamil Nadu's DMK government. He accused the government of sacrificing Karnataka's interest to protect Congress' alliance with DMK.

The BJP leader said people in Karnataka have hit the streets to protest against the government's failure and the BJP and JDS are extending all support to them. The state government has to rectify its mistakes, failing which the law and order situation will deteriorate and the government will be held responsible for it, he said.

BJP state president Nalin Kumar Kateel said CM Siddaramaiah and DyCM DK Shivakumar do not muster the courage to speak to Congress leader Sonia Gandhi or Tamil Nadu CM MK Stalin and are releasing water to Tamil Nadu.

Sadananda Gowda said the government has ignored the suggestions given at the all-party leaders meeting.

Kumaraswamy said people in Karnataka are in distress, but Shivakumar is happily releasing water to TN. Though opposition parties and people in the state are demanding the government not to release water to Tamil Nadu, the government continues to release water, he said. The former CM also alleged that DyCM's remarks that state reservoirs are getting inflows of 10,000 cusecs hurt the state's interests.

Over 1,900 forums supporting bandh: Vatal

The Kannada leader says will shut toll plazas on highways, stop trains in state

KARNATAKA BANDH

A day after the Bengaluru bandh on Tuesday, pro-Kannada organisations are preparing a more intense Karnataka bandh against the release of Cauvery water to Tamil Nadu, on Friday. The agitators have planned to block all national highways in Karnataka, disrupt train services and lay siege to the Kempegowda International Airport among others.

On Wednesday, various leaders of Kannada Okkoota (Kannada Federation), which has called for the bandh, held a meeting with the office-bearers of the Karnataka Film Chamber of Commerce (KFCC) and sought their support for the bandh. KFCC president NM Suresh announced total support to the bandh and said all activities related to the film industry - shooting, post-production works, screening of movies, etc. - will be stopped on Friday. He also appealed to star actors to voluntarily take part in the rally organised as part of the bandh.

Meanwhile, cab and autorickshaw drivers' unions have also extended support to the bandh, while the state-run KSRTC and BMTC employees' union has not taken any decision. Schools and colleges are likely to decide on announcing a holiday by Thursday evening, after assessing the situation. Industry bodies and hotel associations are also yet to take a call.

Seeking support for the bandh, Kannada activist Vatal Nagaraj went on an open vehicle in the streets of Malleswaram and other areas, appealing to traders to extend their support to the Karnataka bandh.

He said over 1,900 organisations have supported the bandh and all NHs in Karnataka will be blocked. "We will close the toll plazas on highways, stop trains and lay siege to the international airport. There will be no malls or cinemas. We will protest peacefully and no medical services will be affected by the bandh," he said.

Further, he said that a massive rally is planned from Town Hall to Freedom Park at 10.30 am and warned that protests would be intensified if the police detained the agitators. He criticised CM Siddaramaiah for his silence over the Cauvery issue and urged him to stop releasing water to TN.

Meanwhile, Karnataka Home Minister Dr G Parameshwara said although bandhs are not the solution to any problem, people have the right to protest peacefully. "I have instructed the officers to ensure that law and order is not disturbed during the bandh," he said, while DG & IGP Alok Mohan said security will be beefed up across the state.

Meanwhile, around 50 protesters, who tried to block the highway at the Karnataka-TN border near Attibele, were taken into preventive custody.

EXAMS POSTPONED

Owing to the bandh, Bangalore University has postponed second and fourth semester degree exams, which were scheduled for Friday, to Saturday. Similarly, Tumkur University has postponed the supplementary exams for the first semester of UG courses to October 18 and exams for the second and fourth semesters of PG courses (CBCS-EMS & UUCMS) to October 12.

Seers lend support to K'taka's cause

ENS @ Mysuru

SUTTUR Mutt seer Shivarathri Deshikendra Swami has said that Karnataka's water requirements should be met first before releasing water to neighbouring Tamil Nadu.

In a statement here, the seer said that the issue needs to be addressed urgently in consultation with the Government of India, Supreme Court, the Tribunal, and experts of neutral states. He said the Cauvery dispute has been a burning issue for centuries. "Since the beginning, TN has gotten more than its share of water. The farmers of the Cauvery basin in Karnataka are continuously facing water shortage. Drinking problems in Mysuru and Bengaluru are escalating due to this. The end of this issue appears not to be in sight," he said.

He further stated that the Karnataka government is always responding to the farmers' plight of the neighbouring state and respecting the decisions of the Tribunal and the courts, despite stiff resistance from the people. "This should not be assumed as the weakness of the state by anyone," he added. "The distribution of water needs to be based on the annual rainfall and water storage in the Cauvery basin. The problem continues as long as there is drought and a shortfall in rain. This needs to be addressed urgently.. We strongly urge that the water requirements of Karnataka for agriculture and drinking should be met before releasing it to Tamil Nadu," he said.

Meanwhile, Sri Gurugunda Brahmeshwara Mutt seer Nanjavadhuta Swami came down heavily on the Parliamentarians from Karnataka for their silence on the Cauvery issue.

The Vokkaliga seer, who took part in a padayatra organised by the Raitha Hitarakshana Samithi in Mandya on Wednesday, said, "The MPs from state must immediately protest in front of the Parliament and put pressure on the Centre to resolve the dispute. When a similar situation had arisen in the past, former PM HD Deve Gowda had held a protest in front of Gandhi statue near Parliament forcing the then PM to intervene in the issue," he said.

SC too orally supported Mekedatu project: DKS

"ON an average, 2,000 cusecs of water is flowing to TN daily. We will make alternative arrangements to release 1,000 cusecs more to TN. For us, Mandya farmers' welfare is important," DK Shivakumar said.

Stressing on the need to implement the Mekedatu reservoir project, Shivakumar said leaders of opposition parties have written to the officials concerned on the importance of this project for Karnataka. Even former prime minister HD Deve Gowda has written to PM Modi in this regard. "Why can't they protest in New Delhi to draw the Union Government's attention?" he said.

He said the SC too had orally supported the project. Even the BJP MPs spoke in favour of the project at the recent all-party meeting. The project could be completed in three years if approved.

Shivakumar appealed to prominent Kannada organisations and farmers to withdraw their call for 'Karnataka bandh' on September 29. It will only cause inconvenience to the people of the State, he said.

HAMUL building mega dairy, ops to begin in Jan

BR UDAYA KUMAR
@ Hassan

THE Hassan Cooperative Milk Producers' Society Union Ltd (HAMUL) is constructing a mega dairy similar to AMUL at Hassan Growth Centre, and will begin operations in January 2024.

The second largest unit in the dairy sector, being set up at a cost of Rs 560 crore, has machinery with the latest technology imported from Germany and Italy. The machines are fully automatic and manpower will be under 30 per cent.

The mega dairy, on a sprawling 50 acres, aims at increasing milk procurement and processing of 25 lakh litres by 2030, from the current procurement of 12 lakh litres per day. The new dairy also has a training centre for milk producers, a powder plant, UHT and processing units. The technical team of engineers from Germany and Italy will start installing the machinery.

According to HAMUL chairman HD Revanna, milk production is increasing and the society is giving a procurement price of Rs 39.20 per litre, the highest among the 13 milk unions in the state. HAMUL also came up with new schemes in the interest of milk producers.

The 9.40 lakh cattle were vaccinated for foot and mouth disease, and will start a month-long special vaccination drive. HAMUL is also giving mat and jab cutters to milk producers at 50 per cent subsidy.

Gowda: Not spoken to PM yet on tie-up; seat-sharing not discussed

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

FORMER PM and JDS patriarch HD Deve Gowda on Wednesday clarified that he has not spoken to Prime Minister Narendra Modi yet on JDS' pre-poll alliance with BJP for the 2024 Lok Sabha polls. The seat sharing issue too was not discussed with Union Home Minister Amit Shah.

"Talks with the PM have not yet taken place. But I have met Shah and spoken about the situation in Karnataka. We briefed all our leaders at party meetings about what happened and what is happening. This party has not let down any community," he said, referring to Muslims. "I agreed to the alliance with BJP and gave permission. We have reached this decision with the consent of all the 19 MLAs and eight MLCs of our party," he said, addressing the media at the party office.

Indirectly blaming Congress and CM Siddaramaiah for JDS being forced to ally with BJP, he alleged that they removed Kumaraswamy-led JDS-Congress alliance government in 2019. "Who sent 17 MLAs to Mumbai?" he said, obliquely referring to Siddaramaiah. "Everyone is asking why we are allying with BJP. A wrong message is being spread in the state with many misinterpretations. But we have taken this step in the interest of our party. This is not opportunistic politics, but we are fighting to save the party," the 90-year-old leader said.

"Show me one party that has not had an understanding with BJP. We know that some Left leaders worked with BJP to defeat Mamata Banerjee in West Bengal," he said, and also referred to Congress leader AK Antony's son joining BJP. "This alliance will not adversely affect our party as no one is leaving. Devadurga MLA Karemma Nayak called me and said no one can separate her from us. But some people are trying to create confusion," he said.

Former CM HD Kumaraswamy alleged they are forced to ally with BJP as Congress has been trying to finish off JDS since 2004 when the Grand Old Party forged an alliance with JDS to form the government. Siddaramaiah wanted to destroy JDS and tried to form the government with the BJP support, he said, "I have proof that Siddaramaiah had approached M Venkataiah Naidu," he claimed.

He said the same day Congress approached JDS for an alliance in 2018, he got a call from Shah. "If we had gone with BJP, I would've been CM for five years. But I didn't do that to safeguard the image of Gowda and the party's secular credentials," he claimed.

Alliance driving JDS, BJP leaders towards Congress: Shivakumar

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@ Bengaluru

"THE JDS-BJP alliance has sent out a wrong message that the ideology is not important in politics," said Karnataka Deputy Chief Minister and KPCC president DK Shivakumar on Wednesday. He claimed that the number of leaders and workers joining Congress has increased after the alliance.

Speaking at the party office after a group of JDS leaders joined Congress, Shivakumar said he spoke to three former JDS MLAs on Tuesday night as they showed interest in joining Congress. "The number of people joining the party will only increase in the coming days. We all fought for a secular government. Now they (JDS) are joining hands with those who brought down the Congress-JDS alliance government in 2019," he said.

"Workers are more important to us than leaders. In places like Shivamogga, Ramanagara and Bengaluru city, workers from both JDS and BJP are joining Congress. They include those who were considered as candidates for the recent Assembly elections," he said.

Congress will never indulge in Operation Hasta to lure workers and leaders from other parties. "Instead, we will seek the cooperation of leaders by asking them to join the party at the cadre level," he added.

Over 70 leaders from the Yeshwanthpur Assembly constituency, represented by BJP MLA and former minister ST Somashekar, joined Congress on Wednesday. They were from Tavarekere, Sooliwara, B Donnenahalli, Kurubarapalya, Uddandahalli and Gollahalli villages.

Ryots told to use tech to reduce water usage

ENS@ Bengaluru

WITH Karnataka facing a deficit in rainfall, Agriculture minister N Chaluvarayaswamy urged farmers to take up agriculture activities using less water.

Karnataka has received 564mm of rainfall as against the normal 756mm since June 1. Chaluvarayaswamy chaired a meeting with farmer organisations, department officials and other stakeholders here on Wednesday. He said the latest technology has to be utilised by farmers. "Using more technology, less water can be used to cultivate crops," the minister added. "One has to use drip irrigation and less water for cultivation," he added.

The minister further said to help farmers, experiments are being conducted on Nano urea. "This will also be made available to farmers. The State Government is helping farmers to use drone- technology in farming," he added.

Meanwhile, farmer associations appealed to the minister to provide ragi, groundnut and other nutritional items instead of the additional 5 kg of rice provided in Anna Bhagya. They urged the minister to strengthen farmers' produce and establish a permanent millet market for farmers.

Karnataka delegation holds talks with IMF, Boeing, GE officials in U.S.

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
Bengaluru

THE Karnataka delegation led by Industries Minister MB Patil on Tuesday held discussions with the International Monetary Fund (IMF) officials regarding Karnataka's strategic position in leveraging the "China + 1" strategy.

Patil and senior officers from the department are in the US on a business promotion visit.

A statement issued by the minister's office said top officials of the IMF, including its Deputy Managing Director Gita Gopinath, attended the meeting in which they analysed the broader Indian growth narrative. They also deliberated on decongesting Bengaluru to support increased investments.

Patil stressed the necessity of strategies to anticipate and address skilled labour force imbalances. Potential partnerships for leveraging blockchain technology to address certain e-governance or municipal challenges would be explored, he said. In a meeting with global aircraft major Boeing, the Minister emphasised exploring potential investments in logistics centres, passenger-to-freight conversions, and pilot and crew training centres near Karnataka airports, the statement said. They also held discussions with the members of GE Healthcare on identifying potential collaboration opportunities in upskilling of workforce in AI/ML which is likely to play a critical role in the next decade. The delegation met representatives of GE Vernova and exchanged ideas on exploring the potential for component manufacturing in Karnataka.

Rain, Ganesha immersion, long weekend, bandh factors drown Mahadevapura in traffic

PIC. RAKSHA ON 'X'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

MODERATE rainfall in Mahadevapura zone was enough to cause heavy traffic jams on Outer Ring Road (ORR) and Arterial Ring Road (ARR) on Wednesday evening. It was compounded by water-logging, Ganesha immersion and many heading out of town because of the long weekend.

The severe traffic congestion prevailed from 4 pm to about 8 pm, forcing the Outer Ring Road Companies Association (ORRCA) to issue an advisory to member companies to inform their staffers to avoid leaving the office early and wait until the situation improved.

Bellandur and HAL traffic police swung into action and cleared the water-logged points at Chroma Road, Kadubeesanahalli and Sakra Hospital junction.

"As it rained for about 40 minutes in the afternoon, there was water-logging at various points. The traffic was slow and in the evening, the crowd swelled due to Ganesh Visarjan and the long weekend ahead due to Eid Milad holiday on Thursday and Friday Bandh. Traffic was hit from 4 pm and started to ease only by about 8 pm," said a senior traffic police official from the Bellandur traffic police station.

Jagadish Reddy from Varthur Rising said had the Bruhat Bengaluru Mahanagara Palike (BBMP) removed the encroachments on Panathur-Chroma Road, the situation would have been much better during rain. "There is an underpass near Chroma Road and we call this 'Kanakana Kindi' and traffic becomes dead slow during peak hours here," he said.

Krishna Kumar Gowda, Operations Manager, ORRCA, said as there was a bandh on Tuesday when many employees of IT companies were allowed to work from home, on Wednesday, many had come to their offices on ORR to work offline. "Multiple factors like rain, water-logging, Ganesha immersion crowds, people travelling out of the city and Friday Karnataka bandh — all contributed to heavy traffic today on ORR and ARR. Many were stuck in traffic, and as a result an alert was sent on Twitter to caution the others about the traffic congestion," he said.

A gang of unidentified miscreants attacked election officials who were on their way to conduct elections for a Milk Producers' Cooperative Society in Magadi, Ramanagara district, and took away the ballot papers on Wednesday. The miscreants also tried to run their car over a woman staffer who tried to stop them.

Police said the staffers, Umesh and Usha, was heading to Hullenahalli village of Magadi taluk to conduct elections for the Hullenahalli Milk Producers' Cooperative Society, when a gang of five people in a car waylaid their car near Kenchanahalli on Magadi-Kunigal Road. After asking for their identity cards and confirming they were the election staff, the gang snatched the bag that had ballot papers, rubber stamps, other election-related materials and a laptop.

The staff tried to resist them but the accused persons allegedly overpowered them and escaped in the car. Usha, who tried to stop the car, was almost run over but she managed to escape, police added. "Preliminary investigation has revealed that rivalry between workers of two political parties led to the incident. The election was suspended following the incident," an officer said.

Fill up backlog vacancies within 6 months, K'taka HC tells state

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE
@Bengaluru

THE Karnataka High Court directed the state government to clear the backlog vacancies at all its departments and institutions and accomplish the task on a war footing, with a limit of six months.

A division bench of Chief Justice Prasanna B Varale and Justice Krishna S Dixit passed the order to undertake the drive as per its earlier orders and the circulars and notifications issued by the government to fill up the posts earmarked for the downtrodden communities.

The order was passed while allowing an appeal filed by Dr M Manju Prasad, questioning the order dated June 6, 2023, passed by a single judge directing him to submit a representation to the principal secretary, Department of Medical Education, on filling up backlog vacancies in the Government Dental College and Research Institute in Bangalore.

The petitioner had prayed before the single judge to issue a direction to the state government and its departments to fill up such vacancies earmarked for SC/STs and backward communities at the institution within a time frame.

The division bench said the single judge proceeded on an erroneous factual premise that the statistical data on the backlog vacancy position was not available when it was on record. The impugned order suffers from misdirection in law and is liable to be voided, as argued by the counsel for the appellant, it said.

It said the counsel is more than justified in submitting that the backlog vacancies cannot be left unfilled. It would amount to denial to these communities a preferential treatment as constitutionally ordained.

That would eventually deprive community representation in public employment and therefore cannot be countenanced, it added.

The division bench said the state government stated about the Dental Institute not undertaking the recruitment, despite a letter written by the Medical Education Department on May 9, 2022.

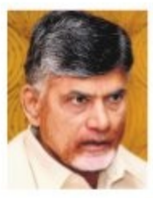
No relief for Naidu, SC to hear plea on October 3

Court will not restrain the trial judge from hearing the petition: CJI

ENS @ Vijayawada

THE Supreme Court on Wednesday refused to restrain a trial court from dealing with Crime Investigation Department (CID)'s plea for custody of TDP chief N Chandrababu Naidu in the alleged ₹371 crore scam in the skill development corporation case even as it agreed to hear the former chief minister's petition to quash the case on October 3.



Chief Justice of India DY Chandrachud orally told Naidu's lawyer, senior counsel Siddharth Luthra, that the court would not restrain the trial judge from hearing the petition. The observation by the CJI came after Luthra complained that the State police was pressing for Naidu's custody while the latter's petition was pending before the Supreme Court.

The petition was initially listed before the designated bench of Justices Sanjiv Khanna and SVN Bhatti. However, as soon as the matter came up for hearing, Justice Khanna said, "My brother has little difficulty in hearing this matter. We are directing it to be listed before another bench next week." It may be noted that Justice Bhatti hails from Andhra Pradesh. Senior advocate Siddharth Luthra, then, rushed to the bench headed by CJI for urgent hearing on Naidu's plea.

"We have some unorthodox requests to make as Justice Bhatti recused from hearing. I did not disturb this bench as it was in the midst of a hearing," Luthra said while mentioning the case before the CJI-led bench. He argued that the FIR against Naidu was unsustainable in the eyes of the law as no prior sanction was obtained by the probe agency for registering it under Section 17A of Prevention of Corruption Act. He also contended police custody cannot be sought after the first 15 days of arrest, according to a provision of the Code of Criminal Procedure.

The senior counsel further alleged that the police custody was being sought because of the upcoming elections. Luthra said Naidu was travelling across Andhra Pradesh to mobilise political support when he was picked up.

Lokesh files anticipatory bail

Vijayawada: Day after the AP Crime Investigation Department named TDP national general secretary Nara Lokesh as an accused in the case pertaining to the irregularities in the alignment of Amaravati inner ring road, Lokesh filed an anticipatory bail plea in the Andhra Pradesh High Court on Wednesday. Saying 'go and die' not abetment to suicide: T'gana HC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Hyderabad

ASSERTING that mere utterance of the phrase "go and die" does not meet the criteria of 'instigation' outlined in Section 306 IPC, the Telangana High Court has acquitted an accused in an abetment to suicide case.

Hearing an appeal in a 2009 case, the judgement passed by Justices K Lakshman and K Sujana clarified that the term "instigate" implies provoking someone to take drastic actions, and words spoken in the heat of the moment during an argument cannot be construed as having malicious intent. The judgement explicitly stated: "Mere uttering of the words 'go and die' will not constitute the offence under Section 306 of IPC".

The court was hearing an appeal challenging a sessions court's verdict convicting the appellant under Section 417 (cheating), 306 (abetment to suicide), and Section 3(2)(v) of the Scheduled Castes and the Scheduled Tribes (Prevention of Atrocities) Act, and sentencing him to life imprisonment. The prosecution alleged that the victim, belonging to a Scheduled Tribe, resorted to consuming pesticide after the appellant refused to marry her. Prior to this, the appellant had allegedly attempted to assault the victim, but the matter was settled when he expressed willingness to marry her.

The high court contended that the trial court prematurely concluded that the appellant had incited the victim by telling her to "go and die," without a thorough examination of the evidence on record. "This court is of the opinion that the evidence on record is not sufficient to convict the appellant/accused as the prosecution has failed to prove its case beyond reasonable doubt," the court stated.

In a first, twisted aorta successfully treated in B'luru

ENS @ Bengaluru

A 64-year-old woman who was suffering from tortuous aorta and a history of failed valve replacement was successfully treated with Hybrid TAVR (Transcatheter aortic valve replacement) at Fortis Hospital in Bengaluru. The treatment is claimed to be India's first reported case of twisted aorta.

The treatment marks remarkable advancement in cardiac care and is the first of its kind in India, said Dr Vivek Jawali, Chairman - Cardiothoracic and Vascular Sciences, Fortis Hospitals. The patient had a failed aortic tissue valve replacement procedure which lead to heart failure and multiple organ dysfunction.

Hamsaveni developed persistent and progressive heart failure, along with multi-organ dysfunction for which she was admitted at Fortis Hospital, Bannerghatta. On evaluation, it was found that her aorta (the largest artery in the body that carries blood away from the heart) was abnormally thickened and calcified. It was also abnormally twisted and tortuous, he said. Dr Srinivas Prasad, Senior Consultant – Interventional Cardiology , Fortis, said, "Initially we planned for a high-risk hybrid TAVR procedure, which involved MIDCAB (Minimally Invasive Direct Coronary Artery Bypass) for grafting the right coronary artery followed by TAVR. However, while inducing anaesthesia, the patient experienced cardiac arrest and multiple organ failure, which led to change in plans. She was immediately shifted to the Cath lab for an emergency TAVR, wherein a catheter was passed through a blood vessel in the groin and guided to the aortic valve through the twisted aorta and tilted valve. The new valve was then deployed to restore proper blood flow."

'Over 3,000 docs will be recruited for govt hosps'

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

THE shortage of doctors in government hospitals will be addressed in the coming months, said Health Minister Dinesh Gundurao. Speaking after launching the 'Clean Hospital - Our Priority' campaign at Ramanagara Government Hospital on Wednesday, he said that more than 3,000 doctors will be available at government hospitals under the mandatory rural service.

"Postgraduate medical students must serve in rural areas mandatorily for one year. Shortage of doctors will gradually be addressed from next month onwards,"

Measures will be taken to fill up doctors' posts wherever there is a shortage, he said, adding that steps will also be taken to recruit nurses and fill up vacant Group D posts, after a meeting with Chief Minister Siddaramaiah and finance officials.

Gundurao said cleaning will be carried out on the third Saturday of every month under the campaign. "Under this, a plan has been devised to scientifically dispose of useless materials and accessories in hospitals. Useless plants will be removed and instead, place will be made for herbal plants. Steps will be taken to improve drinking water facilities and sanitation at the hospital."

Mosquito and infection control measures will also be taken up, Gundurao said. He added that as part of the campaign, short lectures and demonstration activities will given under personal hygiene measures (hand hygiene and menstrual hygiene), nutrition and others.

Kerala Guv reserves assent to bills, govt to approach SC

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ T'Puram

IN response to Kerala Governor Arif Mohammed Khan 'indefinitely' withholding assent to Bills passed by the legislature, the state government has decided to approach the Supreme Court on the matter.

Chief Minister Pinarayi Vijayan told reporters here on Wednesday that the withholding bills indefinitely was reminiscent of the "colonial period" when Governors enjoyed unbridled discretionary powers.

Pinarayi said the government had no other option but to take legal recourse.The government has enlisted senior counsel K K Venugopal to represent its case.

The Chief Minister revealed that eight bills passed by the state legislature in previous sessions were awaiting the Governor's assent, ranging from one year and ten months to a little over five months old. Many of these bills pertain to university law amendments, causing delays in the appointment of Vice Chancellors in universities.

He added that the Bills were not given assent even after the Ministers and officials visited the Raj Bhavan and clarified the Governor's doubts regarding certain provisions in the Bills. "Delaying Bills passed by the state legislature, that reflects the wishes of the people, is against the very essence of parliamentary democracy. No right-thinking person can agree that such an act is in accordance with the Constitution," the Chief Minister said.

Pinarayi said the Governor can refer a Bill to the President if it has any unconstitutional provisions or when it transgresses into the powers of the High Court. But withholding ordinary legislation adversely affects the functioning of a government that is responsible to the people," the Chief Minister added.

Kuruba meeting in Belagavi on Oct 2, 3

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bengaluru

WITH the Lok Sabha elections on the horizon, parties are working hard to woo Kuruba community leaders. The backward community has a demographic of about 11 crore across the nation. Politically, the numbers are significant, compared to the more influential communities of Lingayats and Vokkaligas, whose numbers are smaller nationally.

In most states, Kurubas are considered backwards, but wield considerable influence, and most of the other smaller backward communities follow the Kurubas when it comes to backing parties and candidates politically. Now, the Kurubas are preparing to flex their political muscle on October 2 and 3 at the ninth annual meeting of the community in Belagavi.

Kuruba community leaders who gathered in Bengaluru and addressed the media on Wednesday, said they will honour political achievers from the community -- Haryana Governor Bandaru Dattatreya, Karnataka Chief Minister Siddaramaiah, former DyCM KS Eshwarappa, Union ministers SP Singh Bhagel and Faggan Kulaste, UP minister Ajit Singh Pal, Andhra Pradesh minister Ushashri Charan, Gujarat MLA Mavjibhai Desai, UP MLA Prempal Singh Dhangar, Delhi MLA Dinesh Mongia, Telangana MLC Yeggye Mallesham, Rajya Sabha MP from Gujarat Babubhai Desai and many others. Kuruba leaders are affiliated to various political parties.

Former minister and BJP MLC Adagur Vishwanath, who is also president of Shepherds India International, the organisation that is hosting the meeting, urged everyone to rise above narrow party affiliations and differences in language, and come together with one purpose – to build a stronger community.

Meanwhile, as scores of community members have booked tickets and descended on Belagavi, some community members said accommodation was hard to find because many hotels were already booked. Many participants are staying in Hubballi, which is about 90 minutes away and has many hotels and lodges.

GOVT MUST PROTECT CONSUMERS FROM RISING OIL PRICES

CRUDE oil prices have become volatile again after a period of relative stability, sending jitters across economies of oil-importing countries. It began with big oil producers Saudi Arabia and Russia combining in July to cut a total production of 1.3 million barrels per day. This pushed up crude oil prices that had been hovering around $75-85 a barrel since last October. Earlier this month, the two extended the production cuts to the end of December 2023, pushing up the benchmark Brent crude to around $94 a barrel for the week ending September 15. There has been talk of crude hitting $100 again, but by Tuesday, despite the cut in production, prices began to slip amid concerns that fuel demand will be curbed by major central banks holding interest rates higher for longer.

All this is leading to some diplomatic realignment. The Saudis are claiming they need more oil money to fund Vision 2030, an ambitious plan to reduce the kingdom's dependence on oil. However, the US is not amused and has hinted at imposing sanctions on its former close ally. Higher prices would also help Russian President Vladimir Putin fund his war on Ukraine. At home, though, all this is bad news. Indian companies that had increased their profit margins in the last few quarters are seeing the margins evaporate as oil and energy bills surge. The situation has become even more untenable as slackening consumer demand is hurting revenue growth.

On the broader economic stage, with India importing 85 percent of its oil, rising crude prices will mean a heavier import bill and will dent our reserves. In the longer term, the domino effect can be serious. Higher energy costs will add to the inflationary pressure caused in recent months by the soaring food prices. With less disposable income, family spends will be curtailed, causing a pullback in overall demand. It has all the makings of a recession combined with inflation, a potent decelerating force. In this situation, the government will do well to keep fuel prices under check and not pass on the entire burden to the common man. In the past, when crude prices had fallen to below $60 a barrel, only a fraction of the saving had been passed on to consumers. By the same logic, consumers cannot be ordered now to pay for higher crude bills. These should be set off against the windfall gains made last year.

KERALA NEEDS TO CLEAN UP CO-OP BANKS' BOOKS

SEVERAL reports of financial misappropriation have put Kerala's cooperative banks in a tight spot. The entire sector has come under the scanner after the Enforcement Directorate arrested a local CPM leader in connection with a scam at the Karuvannur Service Cooperative Bank in Thrissur district; the money laundering case alleges ₹150 crore was drained from the bank. This is the first political arrest since the scam surfaced in 2021, but the ED is questioning several leaders, including former minister A C Moideen, in connection with it. Meanwhile, the Pulpally Primary Service Cooperative Bank in Wayanad, which is controlled by a Congress leader, is embroiled in a controversy over ₹8 crore in allegedly fraudulent loans. Other cooperative banks controlled by the CPI and the Indian Union Muslim League, too, are facing similar charges.

That all is not well with the sector was clear last year when Kerala's minister of cooperation, V N Vasavan, said in the state assembly that financial fraud had been found at 399 cooperative institutions over the previous six years. The sector has a two-tier structure in Kerala after the merger of fourteen district cooperative banks with the Kerala State Cooperative Bank, which is now called the Kerala Bank. The second tier is made up of hundreds of primary agriculture cooperative societies and urban cooperative banks. While the CPM controls most of the agricultural and urban banks, the Congress runs a significant number of cooperative societies across the state, too. Discrepancies have been reported earlier, but this is the first time the central agency is looking into the sector, creating a flutter across the state.

The state government, however, alleges that the Centre is trying to shatter the credibility of the state's cooperative sector by using the ED and singling out a few banks that have not favoured multi-state cooperative societies, a pet idea of the RSS. Whether that is true or not, thousands of people who have invested in cooperative societies are panicking. It is the duty of the state government to protect their investments. It is a pity that the government turned a blind eye to the crisis despite several red flags raised over the last few years. It is time for the government to clean up the books if it wants to protect the credibility of the sector.

QUICK TAKE

MORE REGULAR JOBS, MORE INEQUALITY

MORE Indians have moved from itinerant to regular work over the last decade. But this gain has eluded India's scheduled castes—only a fifth of them earn a salary compared to a third among other groups, and two-fifths of them do not have regular jobs as against an eighth of the others. Azim Premji University's latest State of Working India report shows that though salaried jobs have grown, so has inequality. Women earn three-fourths of what men make in similar jobs, and lower-caste women earn half of what upper-caste women make. Indian budgets think of geography and gender when planning for balanced growth. It is time to consider the caste question beyond welfare schemes.

More women are needed in the workforce for the nation to realise its growth potential. Making public transport free for women can have a virtuous effect on all—in more ways than one

A SMALL STEP FOR WOMEN, A LEAP FOR THE NATION

THE role of women in the workforce has become increasingly important in India. While our nation strives for growth and development, it faces a pressing issue—the falling labour force participation among women. Increasing women in the workforce is key to a thriving economy.

According to the Periodic Labour Force Survey for 2021-22, the labour force participation rate (LFPR) of women in the age group of fifteen to fifty-nine was only 29.4 percent, but for men, it stood at 80.7 percent. This huge gap, which is influenced by a number of socio-cultural and economic factors, not only restricts women's economic independence but it stops the country's economy from realising its full potential.

Shalom Gauri, an assistant archivist at the QAMRA Archival Project at NLSIU Bengaluru, has shown that one aspect that contributes to the low female LFPR is women's preference for a workspace closer to home. Studies suggest that since women have to bear the sole responsibility of household chores and have graver safety concerns, they prefer to work near their homes and tend to make multiple trips to work. Therefore, offering free public transport to women can increase their participation as they would not have to worry about the economic implications of their frequent travel. According to a 2015 McKinsey global study, India can boost its GDP by 16 percent by 2025 if women's participation in the economy is on par with men's.

Offering free public transport will not just encourage women to join the workforce but also result in increased disposable income. This may nudge women to spend on leisure activities, entertainment and personal care, stimulating various sectors of the economy. Increased ridership and travel for activities like shopping and leisure lead to higher commodity demand and goods consumption. This would also foster gender inclusivity in workspaces, improving the overall economic well-being of women. Moreover, free-fare public transport for women would also contribute to environmental sustainability and societal progress.

Promoting free bus travel for women has substantial environmental benefits. If women opt for public transportation, there will be fewer individual cars and less congestion on the road, resulting in lower carbon emissions and decreased air pollution. Research from around the world shows that public buses are generally more fuel-efficient and eco-friendlier than private cars.

Reduced emissions contribute to improved air quality, which is vital for public health. Cleaner air means fewer respiratory illnesses and reduced healthcare costs for the government.

Enhanced urban sustainability is another outcome, as reduced traffic congestion saves time for commuters and reduces emissions. Less demand for private vehicle parking can free up urban land for green spaces and sustainable development projects.

Providing free bus travel to women fosters various positive societal impacts. It improves access to education, leading to higher enrollment rates, better attendance, and improved educational performance. More healthcare accessibility ensures better maternal and child health outcomes and aids in disease prevention.

This initiative enhances women's safety during commutes, promoting a sense of security. It fosters community integration, enabling them to participate in social gatherings and civic activities, leading to stronger, more gender-inclusive communities.

By narrowing economic disparities, especially for women from economically weaker backgrounds, this policy provides more equitable access to transportation services, contributing to a fairer society.

One criticism of the FFPT model has been the extensive burden on the public exchequer. Some consider it as a diversion from the current fiscal responsibility and budget management obligations of the states. However, the capital gains from this policy are much higher, and more female participation in the workforce will only raise the country's gross domestic product in the long run. The fiscal burden can be addressed through additional revenues. States can also increase parking fees, which not only supports the pruning of state revenues but also discourages the usage of private vehicles on the road. States can also consider increasing the registration fees for private vehicles. Public buses, with increased ridership, can also be a good marketing platform for advertisements, and the revenues from this activity can be utilised to make public transport free for women.

In the pursuit of gender equality and economic progress, some Indian states have already taken significant steps. Policies providing free bus travel for women have been implemented to varying degrees in four states—Delhi, Tamil Nadu, Punjab and Karnataka. These initiatives are promising in empowering women and fostering economic growth. It's high time other states carefully examine these models and consider integrating them into policies. Empowering women through accessible public transport is not just a regional necessity but a nationwide imperative. Every state can adapt and implement a similar policy to uplift its economy and society without compromising on environmental sustainability.

To truly progress as a nation, it is imperative to bridge gender gaps in all aspects of life. Embracing inclusive policies that empower women should become a common goal for all states, reflecting commitment in creating a brighter, more equitable future for every citizen.

WHEN A DEMOCRACY DEPLOYS WEAPONS OF MASS DISTRACTION

KAJAL BASU
Veteran journalist

NAPOLEON spoke of the press as "the seventh great power". Its significance became politically visible with the beginning of the French Revolution, and maintained its position for the entirety of the 19th century. The century's politics were largely determined by the press. One can hardly imagine or explain the major historical events between 1800 and 1900 without considering the powerful influence of journalism.—Joseph Goebbels, propaganda minister in the Hitler regime, 1938

In August 1933, the year Hitler became chancellor, Goebbels inaugurated the 10th International Radio Show in Berlin with a speech titled 'The Radio as the Eighth Great Power'. Very neatly, he separated the press—Napoleon's "seventh great power"—from the radio. They were, in his eyes, two different journalisms, so to speak: the press being print, shackled by the reach of industrial machinery such as printing presses and distributive facilities such as roads and trucks, and radio, travelling through unstoppable air, hampered by nothing at all.

That very year, German citizens were deluged with a range of cheap bakelite radio sets under the rather clipped rubric of Volksempfänger, or the people's receiver. Available on instalments, these ubiquitous radios pushed Goebbels' cause for a medium that would be "an intermediary between the government and the nation".

The government arm-twisted twenty-eight manufacturers, including Philips, Siemens and Telefunken, into mass-producing clones of the Volksempfänger, with not a circuit or art-deco design permitted to be out of place. The radio's construction might have been tightly controlled, but Goebbels, a master of the methodology of propaganda, held a loose but selective rein on programming. For light consumption, he allowed operas, Tanzmusik, concerts and games; at the same time, he banned music he considered corrupted, such as jazz and the rambunctious swing. Enthralled by the possibilities of entertainment at the twist of a dial, the German public accepted the censorship. Notwithstanding these little pleasures, the German public was pounded incessantly with the incendiary oratory of one man: the putative Reichsführer.

"Ultimately," wrote Allison Marsh in Inside the Third Reich's Radio, "Goebbels's propaganda machine and the Volksempfänger transformed the soundscape of cities across Germany and led to a uniformity of culture." When minorities—Jews, Poles, homosexuals, the antinormative demonised through repetition—began to disappear, some overnight, the Volk, or the people, deep in their enthralment, were unmoved. Many became active participants in the Reinigungsprojekt, or cleansing project of the Nazi regime.

Meanwhile, the number of newspapers in Germany shrunk year by year from 4,700 in 1933, of which only 141, or three percent, were controlled by Hitler, to 1,100 in 1944, of which 325, or 29.5 percent—not counting the regional editions—were owned by the Nazi party. About half of all newspapers were in private or institutional hands, but their readership withered to 4.4 million, while those owned by the Nazi party—fewer in number but with immeasurably greater clout—had 21 million.

In the late 1930s, the Nazi state favoured the radio over the printed press because it was easier to control and distribute. The Volksempfänger, or people's receiver, was mass-produced and made easily available

After the depredations of WWII had settled into an anxious regime of study of causes and effects, communications scholars began analysing the active linkages between electronic outreach, politics, culture, media and bossism.

Although many in recent times have concluded that social media is the closest cognate of the Nazi radio, studies in comparative politics often skate over the missing link—television.

Television has the equal informational ubiquity of radio, with the added seduction of the visual. Like Germany, modern-day authoritarian regimes co-opt, by hook or by crook, by inducement or by diktat, by cajoling or by kompromat, the organisational disseminators of information: electronic media houses or standalone organisations.

In authoritarian regimes, television is roped in to disseminate events that the ruling strongman presides over. The studios are stripped of decision-making powers on which news to purvey when, leave alone on whether to purvey it at all. Hungarian prime minister Viktor Orbán's exhortation to US conservatives in May 2022 comes to mind: "Have your own media", which is a euphemism for 'own your media'. Orbán has sidelined Hungary's independent media, with the TV channel Partizan being pushed to a crowdfunded existence on YouTube, a journey reminiscent of former NDTV anchor Ravish Kumar's journey from a professional TV studio to a personal YouTube channel.

No TV news channel in a democratic country with untrammelled access to newsworthy events, politicians, newsmakers and protagonists will share the exact same footage of a politician expounding—at the exact same moment, from the same angle of vision, often from the same camera—which means that it has been handed out by an official agency.

But this is exactly what happens in India's national TV news channels—and many regional ones—at least thrice a week. Our primus politicus is always on an inauguration drive of some minor infrastructural development or the other—from Vande Bharat trains (he flagged off nine in a day a few days ago, a task earlier reserved for either a railways minister or a railways honcho) to highways, short stretches of metros, convention centres, addressing party workers or junior bureaucrats, to science seminars with few pretenses to scientism. Each one is covered end-to-end by our news channels that pretend to exist for a while in a paradisiacal realm of no other news. This—punctuated by establishment-tilted panel shriekfests and declamations in Parliament—is what the TV news viewer from border to border gets to watch. 24/7. Change channels, and you'll segue through the same footage without losing a second.

Towards the end of the war, many Germans, tired of Hitlerian overkill on the airwaves, had begun turning away from Nazi radio programmes and, despite the Gestapo threat to life, doctored their Volksempfänger to tune in to Allied broadcasts.

There is always blowback.

Organised crime plagues Canada, says Jaishankar

Says Trudeau govt has failed to take decisive steps against terrorists

YESHI SELI @ New Delhi

External Affairs Minister Jaishankar, during a Council on Foreign Relations event in New York on Tuesday, criticised the Canadian government for its lack of action against terrorists and extremists. Canada has been plagued by organised crime associated with secessionist groups and violent extremism, he pointed out and expressed India's deep concern, attributing this permissiveness to political motivations.

Jaishankar highlighted the grave situation by mentioning threats faced by Indian diplomats. The EAM accused Canadian Prime Minister Justin Trudeau's government of failing to take any decisive measures against terrorists and extremists residing in Canada. He insinuated that this inaction was due to political convenience, alluding to the ongoing controversy around killing of Hardeep Singh Nijjar.

Regarding intelligence related to Nijjar's death, Jaishankar refrained from making any comments, stating, "I'll share with you what we conveyed to the Canadians. Firstly, this does not reflect the policy of the Government of India. Secondly, we informed the Canadians that if they possess specific and relevant information, they should share it with us. We are open to examination."

The minister urged the United Nations to undergo reform, emphasising the importance of listening to a broader range of countries. He cautioned against allowing "political convenience" to dictate responses to terrorism and violence.

When questioned about Manipur, Jaishankar assured that efforts were underway to restore normalcy to the region.

Underscoring the necessity for India and the US to collaborate to safeguard their respective interests, he observed that the Global South currently harbours skepticism towards the Global North.

Jaishankar mentioned that India is actively seeking investment and technology partnerships while maintaining its own terms and conditions.

The external affairs minister also drew attention to China's expanding navy, particularly its increased presence in ports like Gwadhar and Hambantota, and the growing activity in the Indian Ocean.

More Union mins in assembly poll fray?

RAJESH KUMAR THAKUR @ New Delhi

AFTER naming Union ministers as candidates in the upcoming Madhya Pradesh election, the BJP is learnt to have decided to field more Central ministers and sitting MPs in polls in different states. The objective is to create space for new faces for Lok Sabha polls.

By fielding three Union ministers in Madhya Pradesh, the BJP has dropped a signal that it may field senior and experienced leaders who, apart from the national level, have a good hold on the politics of their respective states.

"The best way to utilise their experiences of electoral politics is bring them into the fray for assembly elections in other states also. The party finds a merit in it and may most probably go the way it has gone for MP assembly election," said a senior party functionary.

The assembly election in Congress-ruled Rajasthan has become a matter of challenge to for the BJP this time.

"The names of some Union ministers and sitting MPs are doing the rounds. They may be tasked to contest the upcoming assembly election. Notably, many of them have a good hold on their respective districts," said a BJP source.

It is speculated that Union ministers Arjun Ram Meghwal and Gajendra Singh Shekhawat may be fielded in Rajasthan this time as both of them have political influence across the state. Meghwal represents Bikaner LS constituency and has strong hold in major chunk of voters belonging to his community.

"There is also the possibility that the party may ask him to head the government if it is voted to power, on the basis of his political experience. He is a bureaucrat-turned-politician and knows well the state's political and administrative strengths and weaknesses," said a source.

Shekhawat, MP from Jodhpur LS seat, "is considered a smart strategist for the assembly elections with good public connect. "He is experienced and in state politics now. Involvement of experienced politicians like him has become the need of hour," a leader hinted.

Union minister Renuka Singh, who holds deep connect in tribal community, may be told to contest in Chhattisgarh.

According to souces, 7-9 sitting MPs, three of them ministers in Modi cabinet, are being considered to be fielded from Rajasthan and Chhattisgarh.

Union ministers Ashwini Vaishnaw, Arjun Munda, RK Singh, Giriraj Singh, Ashwini Choubey, Darshana Jardosh, Bhupendra Yadav, SP Singh Baghel, V Muraleedharan and Kiren Rijiju, as well as Kailash Choudhary, the MP from Rajasthan's Barmar seat, are some other leaders who may be contesting the assembly elections in different states.

Indigenous equipment in warships to go up to 90% within a decade, says Navy

MAYANK SINGH @ New Delhi

THE Indian Navy is consistently augmenting indigenous components in construction of its warships and submarines and this could touch up to 90 per cent in every sphere. An updated indigenisation roadmap of the force is also planned to be released next week at Swavlamban Seminar.

"We will reach up to 90 per cent indigenous component in the areas of float, move and fight as far as our warships and submarines are concerned," said Vice Admiral Sanjay Jasjit Singh on Wednesday.

The Naval warships comprise three components — float, move and fight. As per Indian Navy Chief Admiral R Hari Kumar, the Navy has achieved Atmanirbharta (self-reliance) of 95 per cent in float components, 60-65 per cent in move components, and 50 per cent in fight components.

> We have obtained Acceptance of Necessity for 12 deals worth close to ₹1,500 crore, and procurement orders for products worth ₹200 crore among these have been signed.
>
> Sanjay Jasjit Singh, Vice Admiral, Indian Navy

The 'float' component, which includes hull, is made of indigenous steel. The 'move' includes engine and whatever makes the vessel move, complete propulsions systems, associated machinery and auxiliaries. The shaft, propelling and control panels of the 'move' components are being made in India. The 'fight' components include weapons, sensors and arms and ammunition. In 'fight', the radars and sensors are indigenous.

Going ahead with the ambitious push towards adding a number of niche technologies developed indigenously, Singh added that the Navy resolved to develop 75 technologies at the Swavlamban seminar last year and the aim has been achieved.

"Today, I can say with confidence that the Swavlamban initiative has gained critical mass, and is gathering continuous momentum. I am happy to inform you that the promises made last year have been fully met, and even surpassed in some cases," he said.

A source said that an updated "Indian Navy indigenisation roadmap", a document titled 'Swavlamban 2.0' and new challenges for the industry are planned to be released at the seminar, scheduled to be held on October 4-5 this year. The new technologies that include underwater swarm drones, applications of robotics and AI, autonomous weaponised boat swarms, blue-green lasers for underwater applications will be showcased in the seminar.

'NMC refused to share details of colleges that took back medical students' stipends'

KAVITA BAJELI-DATT @ New Delhi

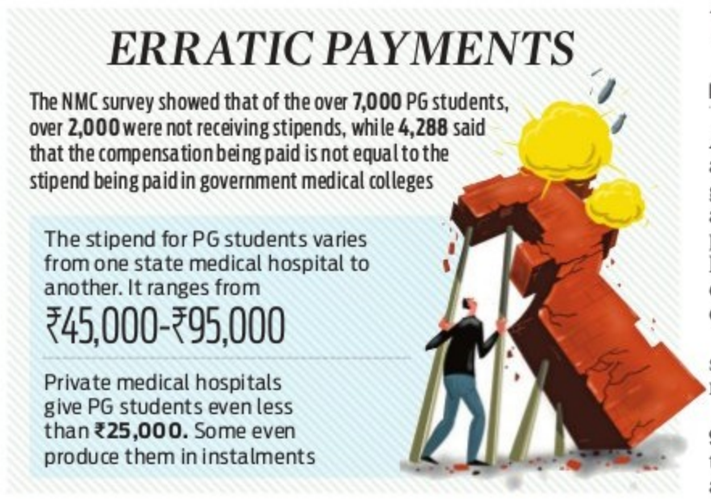
THE National Medical Commission (NMC) has refused to share the details of private medical colleges that paid stipends to medical students and then took it back, in reply to a Right to Information (RTI) application.

Kerala-based ophthalmologist and activist Dr KV Babu, who filed the RTI application, said, "I had asked for names and lists of private medical colleges in India, which gave stipends to medical students, which was later taken back by the management. I got the RTI reply on Wednesday. The NMC declined the information, saying that third-party information cannot be given under Section 8 of RTI Act, 2005."

The NMC surveyed undergraduates and postgraduate medical students in India as directed by the National Human Rights Commission (NHRC) in the last week of April and the first week of May.

The NHRC took up the matter following a Kerala student's complaint that the stipend given to MBBS interns is inadequate and in violation of government order. The NMC had informed the NHRC that they would submit a detailed survey report later.

In its advisory on payment of stipends to PG medical students on August 24, NMC said 7,901 PG students from 213 self-financed or private medical colleges spread across 19 states showed that 16 per cent of PG students have to return the stipend money to college management. However, it did not name the private medical colleges.



ERRATIC PAYMENTS
The NMC survey showed that of the over 7,000 PG students, over 2,000 were not receiving stipends, while 4,288 said that the compensation being paid is not equal to the stipend being paid in government medical colleges
The stipend for PG students varies from one state medical hospital to another. It ranges from ₹45,000-₹95,000
Private medical hospitals give PG students even less than ₹25,000. Some even produce them in instalments

In his RTI application dated August 28, Dr Babu asked the NMC to name the private medical colleges that paid stipends to 1,228 students, but the management took it back. "It is clear from the public notice dated August 24 regarding the survey among PG doctors that almost 8,000 PG doctors are not paid stipulated stipends. Of the total numbers, 1,228 PG doctors were paid stipends, but the management took it back," he told this paper.

"The managements of those private medical colleges are cheating the NMC, students and the public. Instead of disclosing their names on the website, the NMC is stonewalling RTI applications. It is clear that the NMC is trying to protect the private medical college managements," he said.

Babu said he had also asked for the copies of the notice issued by the NMC to the colleges that violated the regulations. "I had also asked for the status of the recognition of PG courses of those courses of the colleges. They should have at least shared the copies of the notice and action taken," he said.

As per Regulation 13 of Post Graduate Medical Education Regulation, 2000, "The PG students of the institutions located in various states/UTs shall be paid remuneration at par with the remuneration being paid to the PG students of state government medical institutions/Central government medical institutions, in the state/UT in which the institution is located.

Mandaviya urged states to adhere to the guidelines issued by the centre for prevention and containment of dengue.

He highlighted that the centre has provided all necessary support to the states for screening kits and has provided financial support for fogging and IEC activities as well.

According to a statement issued by the union health ministry, the centre has provided adequate funds to the states under the Program Implementation Plan (PIP) for disease and entomological surveillance, effective management of cases and averting deaths and laboratory diagnosis.

Also, the funds are provided for eliminating the vector breeding and source reduction activities engagement. The budget is provisioned for the procurement of fogging machines too, the statement said.

Greenhouse gas emissions up 75% in 10 yrs due to farm waste burning: Study

JITENDRA CHOUBEY @ New Delhi

GREENHOUSE gas emissions from agricultural residue burning across India have increased at alarming levels. Total greenhouse gas increased by 75 per cent in the past decade due to agricultural residue burning, according to a study. Punjab tops in this, followed by Madhya Pradesh.

Greenhouse gases (GHGs) are gases in the earth's atmosphere that trap heat causing warming of the planet. Excessive rise in GHGs causes abnormal increase in temperatures, resulting extreme weather events across the globe. Major heat-trapping gases include carbon dioxide, methane, nitrous oxide, and water vapour.

Agricultural residue burning is producing large amounts of carbon dioxide. Indian farmers burnt over 87 million tonne of agriculture residue in 2020, which is equal to the entire agricultural waste production of neighbouring countries.

Cheaper disposal

The success of India's Green Revolution led to remarkable increase in food production, intensifying agricultural production, and as a result, large quantities of byproducts as well. Farmers adopted the cheaper and efficient method of burning them, posing serious environmental concerns.

A new study published by Indian Institute of Science Education and Research Bhopal (IISER), in collaboration with international non-profit CIMMYT and University of Michigan, shows that Punjab was the highest emitter, with 27 per cent of its cultivated area burned in 2020. Madhya Pradesh is at a close second.

Moreover, this study develops a satellite technology to accurately estimate the greenhouse gas emissions on a massive scale and offers insights into planning and managing agri-residue burning.

Researchers develop groundbreaking satellite-based technology that provides insights into greenhouse gas emissions from the burning of stems, leaves, and other residues from harvested crops in India.

The study demonstrates how spectral data — light and other electromagnetic radiation — collected by space-based instruments can accurately estimate greenhouse gas emissions on a massive scale.

Post-Godhra, plot hatched to defame Gujarat: Modi

Says then Central govt denied help & ministers refused to visit state

DILIP SINGH KSHATRIYA @ Ahmedabad

PRIME Minister Narendra Modi has alleged that a conspiracy was hatched to defame Gujarat in the world. The PM said, "The then Central government also denied Gujarat any assistance, and ministers never visited Vibrant Gujarat. Foreign businessmen were hesitant to invest in Gujarat."

Modi was addressing a gathering of industrialists and leaders during a function in Gujarat's Ahmedabad to commemorate the 20th anniversary of the Vibrant Gujarat Global Summit On Wednesday. He recalled the episodes of defaming Gujarat and the Godhra riots in his speech.

"In 2001, there was an uproar in the economic life of entire Gujarat. In a way, the financial sector of Gujarat was in crisis. At that time, I had become an MLA for the first time. This role was also new for me. I had no experience of running a government. But the challenge was huge."

"Meanwhile, another incident happened. The heart-wrenching incident of Godhra took place and in the circumstances that followed, Gujarat burst into flames of violence. Hardly anyone would have imagined such a dire situation. Even though I did not have much experience as a chief minister at that time, I had unwavering faith in Gujarat and the people of my Gujarat," he added.

Attacking the opposition, the PM said those who carry an agenda were busy analysing the events in their own way even at that time. It was said that youth from Gujarat, industries from Gujarat, businessmen from Gujarat will all move out and Gujarat will be ruined.

"A conspiracy was hatched to defame Gujarat in the world. An attempt was made to create an atmosphere of despair. It was said that Gujarat would never be able to stand on its own feet. Even in that crisis, I resolved that no matter what the circumstances were, I would take Gujarat out of it," the PM said.

School buses to have GPS for safety in C'garh

EJAZ KAISER @ Raipur

THE Chhattisgarh government on Wednesday launched a command and control centre to ensure enhanced safety measures for the women and girls travelling in private passenger and school buses.

The state transport department has gone ahead to install the Global Positioning System (GPS) based vehicle tracking software on a designated server to locate the vehicle women are in and placed panic buttons in buses to assist women and others who face any potential danger or untoward incidents. Such installation will also serve as a deterrent to criminal activities.

In Chhattisgarh there are around 12,000 passenger buses owned by private owners running across various routes of the state and over 6,000 private school buses.

CM Bhupesh Baghel inaugurated GPS-based vehicle tracking software for the safety of women passengers. The GPS system provides accurate real time information of the bus' location, thereby ensuring enhanced safety. Passengers can press the panic button in the event of any emergency or accident to immediately notify both the police control room and the transport control room. This will promptly activate the emergency response.

Vijayvargiya says didn't want to be in fray from Indore

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

TASKED by the party to wrest the Indore-1 assembly seat from the Congress and rub off his poll management experience and political influence on other seats too, the BJP national general secretary Kailash Vijayvargiya, a native Indore district, said he didn't desire even one per cent to contest poll himself.

"I had not even one per cent desire to contest polls myself. I did not have the mindset of contesting the polls as a candidate. I still can't believe that I am a candidate. I was preparing to campaign for other candidates. I'm a big leader now and ready for the contest," Vijayvargiya said kick-starting campaigning from the Indore-1 seat on Tuesday evening.

"I will work for making Indore-1 seat the best in all respects and win it with record votes. During the campaigning, I will try to reach every voter," the seasoned politician told the party workers before riding as pillion on a motorbike as part of a procession in the constituency.

Vijayvargiya, who has never lost any election, has won six successive assembly polls from three different seats of the Indore district–Indore-4 (1990), Indore-2 (1993, 1998 and 2003) and Mhow (2008 and 2013). He was Indore's first elected mayor in 2000.

The 67-year-old BJP politician, who was the organisation's brain behind BJP's 2014 assembly poll success in Haryana, but was lying in the cold since the 2021 West Bengal assembly poll debacle, is believed to have been lobbying for the party ticket for his first-time MLA son Akash Vijayvargiya this time from Indore-2 seat (his home seat).

The BJP is winning the home seat from the last 30 years, but the party stunned him, by naming him as the candidate.

Vijayvargiya is pitted against first-time Congress MLA Sanjay Shukla. Importantly, Shukla himself comes from a family that has BJP roots and the overwhelming support of Brahmin voters, who form a sizable chunk of the electorate in the Indore seat.

Customer alleges eatery served 'dead lizard'

A customer lost his cool at an eatery in the city the other day when he discovered a "dead lizard" in the rice served to him. When the man from southern Assam's Silchar raised a hue and cry about it, the employees of the eatery and its owner picked up a fight with him. Eventually, the customer lodged a complaint with the police. He told journalists later that he had gone to the place to have dinner. He said he had ordered a rice 'thali' along with fish. He alleged that when he was eating his food, he suddenly discovered the lifeless lizard and took a photo of it. Owner of the eatery claimed it was not a lizard, but a part of the curry.

'Ek Asom Yatra' for communal harmony

The nascent Assam Jatiya Parishad (AJP), a political outfit, launched "Ek Asom Yatra" last week from western Assam's Dhubri. Like the Congress, which wanted to unite India through "Bharat Yodo Yatra", the AJP wants to unite the communities in Assam. Its president Lurinjyoti Gogoi said the AJP took out the march to remove communalism. He alleged some forces were dividing the society in the name of religion. "We are exchanging views with people during the programme to ensure there is peace and amity among different communities. We are also raising various issues," Gogoi said.

IIT develops way to curb environmental hazards

Researchers at the Indian Institute of Technology, Guwahati have developed a silica nanoparticle-coated cotton fabric that can separate oil from oil-water mixture. The research aims to convert a large-scale agricultural waste into a sustainable value-added product to mitigate marine oil pollution. The nanoparticles have been developed by utilising rice husk as the primary source material. The IIT, Guwahati said the findings could aid in the development of economical, sustainable platforms for separating oil-water mixtures. Sustainable and economically-viable conversion of biomass to modified silica for oil spill mitigation was not explored earlier.

Nitish fumes at English signboard on library, asks officials to make amends

RAMASHANKAR @ Patna

BIHAR chief minister Nitish Kumar lost his cool once again after finding sign-board of a newly established digital library written in English in Banka district on Wednesday. He was so displeased that he asked the officials concerned to change the sign-board as early as possible.

"You people are ending the importance of Hindi language. Hindi is our own language. It's also a part of our tradition," he told the senior government officials present at the inauguration of the library. Nitish, however, hastened to add that it didn't mean that he had any problem with English language.

The officials present at the event were taken aback over the sudden outburst of the chief minister. "I had not imagined that chief minister has so much anger against use of English language," said a senior deputy collector present on the occasion. He said the chief minister's directive would be followed at the earliest.

This is not the first occasion when Nitish showed his anger against the use of English at any public function. In March this year, he had hit the national headlines when he expressed his displeasure over use of English by a farmer at a farmers' meeting in Patna.

Bihar CM had reminded the farmer that it's not England but Bharat (India). Moreover the meeting was being held for the farmers and most of them were not aware of the language which he was using at the event.

The farmer from Samastipur district had not expected that he would have to face wrath of the CM for using English to express his views. "If CM had any grudge against the use of English at any government function, he should have said so," the upset farmer had said.

Clear Sarna Dharma Code: Soren to Modi

MUKESH RANJAN @ Ranchi

INTENSIFYING his demand, CM Hemant Soren on Wednesday wrote a letter to Prime Minister Narendra Modi urging him to clear the Sarna Dharma Code in the interest of tribals.

According to Soren, population of tribals in Jharkhand has declined from 38 per cent to 26 per cent in the last eight decades which could have an adverse effect on the policies meant for tribal development under the Fifth and Sixth Schedule of the Constitution.

"There is a continuous decline in the percentage of their population, thus it is natural to have an adverse effect on the policies of tribal development under the Fifth and Sixth Schedule of the Constitution," said Soren in his letter.

The CM further added that not only Jharkhand, but the tribal community all over the country has been struggling for the last several years to protect their religious existence and demanding the inclusion of nature worshiping Sarna religion followers in the census code. "Today the demand for the code is being raised so that they can be confident about its identity."

MP shocker: Mentally-challenged minor from UP raped in Ujjain

EXPRESS NEWS SERVICE @ Bhopal

IN a horrific incident, a mentally challenged minor girl was allegedly raped in the holy town of Ujjain on Monday.

The incident came to light after a CCTV footage of the minor bleeding and limping through a residential locality seeking help appeared on social media.

In the video, a man can be seen shooing her away when she approaches him for help. According to reports, the semi-clad minor, unable to explain the savagery, limped many kilometers in the west MP district, seeking help from residents.

She was finally rescued by sadhus at an ashram, who spotted her in a miserable condition and suspected it to be a case of sexual assault.

The priests rushed her to the local government hospital, after which the matter came to the notice of the local police. The medical examination confirmed sexual assault. She was referred to a hospital in adjoining Indore after her condition deteriorated.

"A case of sexual assault (rape) has been lodged at the Mahakal police station and provisions of the Protection of Children from Sexual Offences (POCSO) Act have also been invoked. A special investigation team (SIT) has been formed to probe the entire matter, including the place of the crime and those involved. Though the girl is unable to tell things clearly, her language suggests she could be from Prayagraj in Uttar Pradesh," Ujjain district police superintendent Sachin Sharma said.

Taking to the social media platform X over the shocking incident, state Congress president Kamal Nath said, "Isn't the daughter with whom the savagery happened in Ujjain, also a Ladli Laxmi and Ladli Behna? Will you only be focused on fighting polls and making false announcements? Will you only inundate hoardings with images of daughters created from artificial intelligence or focus on the security of real daughters on the ground? I demand that the culprits be rendered sternest punishment and the sexual assault survivor's daughter be given Rs 1 crore financial assistance."

Senior Congress leader Rahul Gandhi wrote on X, "There is no justice, no rule of law, and no rights -- today, the situation of the daughters of MP is a matter of shame for the entire country."

The Trinamool Congress said that although the women's empowerment finds special mention in speeches by BJP leaders, violence against women continues to haunt the country. Amid massive public outrage, MP Home Minister Narottam Mishra said an SIT has been formed to probe the incident and a suspect has been detained.

'Tampering with drainage causes Joshimath woes'

NARENDRA SETHI @ Dehradun

A report by the National Institute of Hydrology Roorkee (NIH) said tampering with drainage routes and lack of drainage system have further aggravated the cause of devastation and damage in Joshimath.

The National Institute of Hydrology Roorkee (NIH) report clearly mentions — the water source at JP Colony in Joshimath on January 1, 2023, took everyone by surprise. "Initially, this water was coming out at the rate of 17 litres per minute, which reached 540 litres per minute on February 6. After this, the situation returned to normal," the report said.

"Natural drainage is not possible in these areas," the NIH report said, highlighting the geological and geomorphological status of Joshimath's Sunil Ward, Manohar Bagh, JP Colony and Singhdhar area.

"The possibility of a drain being built in this area is negligible, whatever water came from above, it entered the ground and came in the form of a waterfall around JP Colony. "The old map of the Survey of India shows six natural water-springs around JP Colony, while the institute has identified 16 water-springs here in the study," the NIH report said.

"Natural water sources and storm water drains have been blocked due to uncontrolled development in Joshimath", mentioned prominently by several scientific institutions in their reports.

Due to the Chardham Yatra route, large constructions were erected in an uncontrolled manner, causing a natural disaster to submerge the land in Joshimath.

The report also seriously advises with the opinion of experts that "the development of this sector needs to be controlled and in line with the standards and monitored through technology available in satellite or remote sensing".

Earlier, The New Indian Express had quoted experts as citing possible reasons for the landslide at Joshimath, which are now coming out in the report. Y P Sundariyal, the then professor of geology at Hemati Nandan Bahuguna Garhwal University, and Delhi-based geologist Naresh Rana had expressed deep concern over this at that time.

"Excessive overloading of new buildings and lack of sewerage, drainage system and thousands of litres of waste water seeping into the ground daily led to conditions of land submergence in Joshimath", the report said, "Based on satellite imagery, the Indian remote sensing agency had said that Joshimath town shrank 2.5 inches every year between 2020 and March 2022

GENERAL POLLS

Pak ECP one step closer, publishes delimitation list

ISLAMABAD

PAKISTAN on Wednesday inched closer to the holding of the much-awaited general elections as the country's chief election body published the lists of preliminary delimitation of constituencies.

In a press release, the Election Commission of Pakistan (ECP) said that the report of preliminary delimitation has been uploaded on the commission's website and can be accessed by the public, where maps of the delimitation are also available.

"The publication of the preliminary constituencies will continue for 30 days from September 27 to October 26," it said, highlighting that objections to the preliminary constituencies can be made by the voters of the concerned constituency.

The through representations would be in the form of representations addressed to the commission's secretary and be submitted to the ECP Secretariat in Islamabad by October 27. "The ECP will take decisions on these representations from Oct 28 to Nov 26 after hearing the positions of the respective parties," the release said.

The final list of constituencies would be published on November 30, followed by issuance of the elections schedule and polling. The National Assembly consists of 266 general seats and 60 seats reserved for women. Ten seats have also been reserved for non-Muslims.

Meanwhile, Pakistan has received the first shipment of liquified petroleum gas from Russia. The shipment of 1,00,000 metric tonnes of LPG was delivered by Russia to Pakistan through Iran's Sarakhs Special Economic Zone, the Russian embassy in Islamabad said on Tuesday.

However, it did not provide details on Iran's involvement, and it was not immediately clear how much the LPG cost or if it was discounted. PTI

Fire rips through Iraqi wedding hall, killing 100

Reports pointed to indoor fireworks igniting the ceiling decorations made of flammable materials

Debris at the site of a fatal fire that killed at least 100 in the district of Hamdaniya, Nineveh province in Iraq on Wednesday | AP

QARAQOSH

AT least 100 people were killed when a fire ripped through a crowded Iraqi wedding hall, officials said on Wednesday, pointing to indoor fireworks as the likely cause for the blaze that sparked a panicked stampede for the exits.

More than 150 people were injured by the flames, the choking smoke or in the crush to flee the reception hall, which was reduced to charred debris and piles of twisted furniture under a partially collapsed ceiling.

Early reports suggested flares shot up sparkling flames that ignited ceiling decorations before the fire engulfed highly flammable construction materials.

Health authorities "counted 100 dead and more than 150 injured in the fire at a marriage hall in Hamdaniyah," as the city is also known, Iraq's INA reported in what it called a "preliminary tally."

The casualty toll was confirmed to AFP by health ministry spokesman Saif al-Badr, who said most of the injured were being treated for burns, oxygen deprivation and crush injuries. But the director of health services in Nineveh, Mansour Marouf, on Wednesday afternoon said 94 people had died, with their bodies transported to different hospitals. Only 30 of those had been immediately identified by their families, he said.

The Iraqi Red Crescent reported more than 450 casualties, without providing a breakdown of deaths and injuries.

Civil defence authorities said the hall had been fitted with prefabricated panels that were "highly flammable and contravened safety standards."

Iraqi PM Mohamed Shia al-Sudani declared three days of national mourning. He also ordered "intensified periodic inspections" of entertainment venues nationwide to "ensure that safety measures are followed" and to "identify any non-compliant buildings."

Later on Wednesday, people gathered in a Christian cemetery to attend funerals of some of the fire's victims. Coffins draped in white cloth were carried one after another into the cemetery. Agencies

YOUTH SUE 32 NATIONS OVER CLIMATE

STRASBOURG

SIX young adults and children argued that governments across Europe aren't doing enough to protect people from climate change at European Court of Human Rights (ECHR) on Wednesday in the largest instance of activists taking governments to court to force climate action.

The group, aged 11 to 24, say they are suffering from anxiety over their health and "having to live with a climate that is getting hotter and hotter" with more natural disasters.

Legal teams for the 32 nations—which includes the 27 EU member countries, the UK, Switzerland, Norway, Russia and Turkey—questioned the admissibility of the case as well as the claim that the plaintiffs are victims of climate change harm.

But lawyers representing the group from Portugal said the nations they're suing have failed to adequately address human-caused warming. They insisted on the need for rapid action to meet climate targets that have been set for the end of the decade.

"Today's case is about the young...It is about the harm that they will suffer during their lifetimes unless states step up to their responsibilities," said Alison Macdonald, pleading on behalf of group.

Mariana (L) and Claudia Agostinho arrive at the European Court of Human Rights | AP

Barrister Sudhanshu Swaroop, a counsel for UK, said governments understand the threat of climate change. He said the plaintiffs should have gone through national courts first, and stressed that since they are not nationals of the countries they are attacking, other than Portugal, ECHR cannot have jurisdiction.

Arguing that their rights to life, and to be free from discrimination are being violated, plaintiffs hope favourable ruling will force governments to accelerate their climate efforts. Agencies

Britain approves new North Sea oil drilling

LONDON

BRITAIN on Wednesday gave the go-ahead for a major oil and gas project in the North Sea, ignoring warnings from scientists and the United Nations that countries must stop developing new fossil fuel resources if the world is to avoid catastrophic climate change.

The North Sea Transition Authority approved development of the Rosebank field, allowing owners Equinor and Ithaca Energy to move forward with the project about 130 kilometres northwest of the Shetland Islands. Norway-based Equinor, which owns 80% of Rosebank, said the two partners plan to invest $3.8 billion in the project, supporting about 1,600 jobs at the height of construction. The first phase of the project will begin producing in 2026-2027.

"As we make the transition to renewables, we will still need oil and gas—it makes sense to use our own supplies such as Rosebank," said Prime Minister Rishi Sunak on X. "This is the right long-term decision for the UK's energy security."

The government argues that Britain needs projects like Rosebank to bolster domestic oil and gas production, control costs for consumers and provide "energy security" as the country makes the transition from fossil fuels to renewable energy sources such as wind and solar. Caroline Lucas, the only Green Party member of the House of Commons, called the decision "morally obscene" at a time when the climate emergency is getting "more and more serious." While UK needs to continue pumping gas from existing projects, it shouldn't be opening up new fields, she said. Agencies

Setback for Don as judge rules he deceived banks

NEW YORK

A judge has ruled that Donald Trump committed fraud for years while building the real estate empire that catapulted him to fame and the White House.

Judge Arthur Engoron, ruling in a civil lawsuit brought by New York Attorney General Letitia James on Tuesday, found that the former president and his company deceived banks, insurers and several others by massively overvaluing his assets and exaggerating his net worth on paperwork used in making deals and securing loans.

Engoron ordered that some of Trump's business licenses be rescinded as punishment, making it difficult or impossible for them to do business in New York, and said he would continue to have an independent monitor oversee Trump Organization operations.

Trump's lawyer, Christopher Kise, said they intend to appeal the decision, calling it a 'miscarriage of justice' and 'completely disconnected from the facts and governing law.'

"The decision seeks to nationalise one of the most successful corporate empires in the United States and seize control of private property all while acknowledging there is zero evidence of any default, breach, late payment or any complaint of harm," Christopher Kise said.

Donald Trump, former US president | AP

Engoron found that Trump consistently overvalued Mar-a-Lago, inflating its value on one financial statement by 2,300%.

The judge also rebuked Trump for lying about the size of his Manhattan apartment. Trump claimed his three-story Trump Tower penthouse was nearly three times its actual size, valuing it at $327 million.

Trump has long insisted he did nothing wrong. His son, Eric, said Engoron's ruling was an attempt to destroy my father and kick him out of New York. "Today, I lost all faith in the New York legal system," Eric Trump wrote on X. "Never before have I seen such hatred toward one person by a judge...." Engoron's decision, days before the start of a non-jury trial in James' lawsuit, is the strongest repudiation yet of Trump's carefully coiffed image as a wealthy and shrewd real estate mogul turned political powerhouse. AP

Soldier Travis King in US custody

WASHINGTON

THE US soldier Travis King has been freed by North Korea, where he had been held since running across the border from the South in July, the White House said on Wednesday.

North Korea's state news agency had made a surprise announcement just hours earlier that Pyongyang had decided to expel King, who crossed over during a sightseeing tour of the Demilitarised Zone.

The White House thanked Beijing for allowing the 23-year-old to leave through China, with officials saying King had now left Chinese airspace after being handed over to US custody there.

King was in "good health and good spirits" and looking forward to coming home, after heading to a US military airbase first, US officials added.

"US officials have secured the return of Private Travis King from the Democratic People's Republic of Korea (DPRK)," National Security Advisor Jake Sullivan said in a statement.

Sullivan thanked Sweden, which acts as Washington's diplomatic liaison in Pyongyang, "and the government of the People's Republic of China for its assistance in facilitating the transit of Private King." AFP

Iran says it successfully launched new military satellite

Iran claimed on Wednesday that it successfully launched an imaging satellite into space, a move that could further ratchet up tensions with Western nations that fear its space technology could be used to develop nuclear weapons

NOOR-3 SATELLITE

Iran's Communication Minister Isa Zarepour said the Noor-3 satellite had been put in an orbit 450 kilometres above the Earth's surface, IRNA reported

Zarepour said it was carried by the three-stage Qassed satellite carrier, which also launched predecessors Noor-2 in 2022 and Noor-1 in 2020

NO COMMENT FROM THE U.S.

There was no immediate acknowledgment from Western officials of the launch or of the satellite being put into orbit

SEPARATE SPACE PROGRAMME

The Guard operates its own space programme parallel to Iran's regular armed forces. It launched its first satellite into space in 2020

But the head of the US Space Command later dismissed it as a "tumbling webcam in space" that would not provide vital intelligence. Western sanctions bar Iran from importing advanced spying technology

VICTORIOUS LAUNCH

- Wednesday's launch was carried out by the aerospace wing of the Islamic Revolutionary Guard Corps (IRGC), the ideological arm of the country's armed forces
- Gen. Hossein Salami, the top commander of the Guard, told state TV that the launch had been a "victory" and that the satellite will collect data and images
- Authorities released footage of a rocket taking off from a mobile launcher without saying where the launch occurred
- Details in the video corresponded with a Guard base near Shahroud, some 330 kilometres northeast of the capital, Tehran. The base is in Semnan province, which hosts the Imam Khomeini Spaceport from which Iran's civilian space programme operates

Winston Churchill's Old War Office launched as luxury hotel

LONDON

THE Old War Office (OWO) of Britain's World War II era PM Winston Churchill opened its doors as a brand-new luxury hotel in London with a glittering launch event, complete with surprise musical performances by musicians Lord Andrew Lloyd Webber and Andrea Bocelli.

Princess Anne—the Princess Royal, the sister of King Charles III, officially unveiled the plaque for The OWO after a tour of the hotel with Hinduja Group co-chairman GP Hinduja on Tuesday evening. UK PM Rishi Sunak also made a quick stopover, along with parliamentarians, entrepreneurs, hoteliers and stars of film as well as television.

The Indian-origin Hinduja Group conglomerate and the UK's richest family had acquired the landmark on Whitehall, opposite Downing Street, over eight years ago and tied up with Raffles Hotels to transform the building into an extravagant hub complete with luxury residences, restaurants and spas.

"We have always been working to see what best we can do between India and the UK because we believe our responsibility is to act as a bridge between the host country and the motherland," said GP Hinduja.

After the launch event, which also showcased the food of 3-Michelin-starred chef Mauro Colagreco as the chef partner for The OWO, the hotel will welcome its first guests starting this Friday. Raffles London at The OWO has been developed in partnership between the Hinduja Group and French hospitality group Accor.

The OWO, originally completed in 1906 and designed by British architect William Young, was formerly the site of the original Palace of Whitehall.

Its grand architecture has also made the building a backdrop for James Bond films and, more recently, The Crown Netflix series. PTI

Israelis can now travel to US without visa

WASHINGTON

THE Biden administration is admitting Israel into a select group of countries whose citizens are allowed to travel to the US without getting a visa in advance. The decision was announced on Wednesday.

Under the waiver programme, as of November 30, Israelis will be able to travel to the US for business or leisure purposes for up to 90 days without a visa simply by registering with the Electronic System for Travel Authorization. But even if they are authorised to travel under that system, US officials at the airport can still bar them from entering the country.

Secretary Alejandro Mayorkas said the agreement, after more than a decade of work, "will enhance our two nations' collaboration on counterterrorism, law enforcement and our other common priorities" and make allies more secure. AP

Start-up funding hits 5-yr low in Q3

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ Bengaluru

FUNDING into Indian start-ups continues to drop every quarter and the third quarter (Q3) of 2023 saw a 54% decline in funding at $1.5 billion as compared to Q3, 2022.

Also, the third quarter is the least funded one in the last five years. Market intelligence firm Tracxn's Geo Quarterly Report India Tech-Q3, 2023, revealed late-stage funding rounds saw a 33% reduction and early-stage rounds plummeted by 74% compared to the year-ago period. The third quarter witnessed five funding rounds exceeding $100 million, including companies such as Perfios, Zepto, Ola Electric, Ather Energy, and Zyber 365, with Perfios leading the way with a Series D round of $229 million.

"Despite the decline in funding, India remains among the top-performing tech ecosystems globally. A promising sign in the report is the month-on-month funding growth, with a 91% rise from $376 million in August 2023 to $720 million in September 2023," said Abhishek Goyal, co-founder, Tracxn. India added two new unicorns, Zepto and Zyber 365, in Q3. However, this is a 50% fall compared to the previous year. There were 33 acquisitions during the quarter, a 13% decrease from Q3, 2022.

The report highlights that enterprise applications, fintech, and transportation and logistics tech were the top-performing sectors in Q3, 2023.

Neha Singh, co-founder of Tracxn, said, "Despite facing the challenges of a funding winter, India ranks as the fifth highest funded country in Q3 of 2023 and maintains its fourth place position in terms of total funding for the year to date (YTD). It underscores the resilience of India's tech start-ups and their ability to adapt to changing market conditions."

Meanwhile, Zepto tops the list of the country's top 20 start-ups, according to the 2023 LinkedIn Top 20 Indian Start-ups List. Zepto was placed fourth in 2022. BluSmart , an electric ride-sharing company, which has made it in the list for three years in a row, emerged second on the list this year. Another EV start-up Exponent Energy was a new entrant on the list. Fintech continues to dominate India's Top Startups list in 2023, with four start-ups making it to this year's list - Ditto Insurance, Fi, Jar, and StockGro.

HC allows Akasa Air's plea against pilots over sudden exit

ARSHAD KHAN @ New Delhi

THE Bombay High Court on Wednesday allowed Akasa Air to proceed with its case against pilots in Mumbai while the Delhi High Court said aviation regulator Directorate General of Civil Aviation (DGCA) has the authority to take action against pilots who do not comply with civil aviation requirements (CAR).

The 13-month-old Akasa's operations met with a major blow after more than 40 pilots resigned in quick succession without serving the mandatory notice period. The airline has approached the Bombay High Court to seek a fine from a section of pilots.

In the Delhi High Court, the airline is seeking the intervention of DGCA against its former pilots.A bench led by Justice SM Modak noted that Akasa may continue its lawsuit in Mumbai against five pilots who resigned without serving their mandatory notice period with the airline. The pilots' side contested the court's jurisdiction and said that their contracts were neither executed nor performed in Mumbai.

"Sending a resignation through email cannot be sufficient. Ultimately, the company has to take a call on that. Either company may refuse to accept the the resignation, or may accept it conditionally, or may accept it for future date. If these options are available to employer and these options can be exercised only when email is received, part of cause of action has arisen in Mumbai," noted the Bombay High Court.

The court posted the matter to be heard next on October 4, 2023. Akasa is seeking Rs 21 crores each in damage from 5 former pilots as well as an additional ₹18 lakhs for breach of contract. The Delhi High Court in a hearing clarified that there are no restrictions on the DGCA's ability to take action in cases of non-compliance by pilots. The aviation regulator, DGCA, had earlier said it lacked the authority to intervene in the employment agreements between pilots and airlines.

Akasa has taken 43 pilots to court for leaving the company without serving a mandatory six-month notice period.

Dixon arm to make Xiaomi phones in India

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU
@ New Delhi

CHINESE smartphone maker Xiaomi chose Padget Electronics, a wholly owned subsidiary of Dixon Technologies India, as its contract manufacturer in India.

The Noida-based company will be manufacturing smartphones and other related products for Xiaomi in the country. Manufacturing will take place at Padget's facility in Noida.

"It gives us an immense pleasure to partner with Xiaomi, which is an iconic brand. We are delighted and encouraged by the trust they have reposed on Dixon for the association and believe this association will leverage our excellence, superior execution track record and Xiaomi's expertise and leadership in Indian business ecosystem and it represents a major milestone in Indian government's 'Make in India' initiative," said Atul B Lall, vice-Chairman and managing director, Dixon Technologies (India). He stated, "Dixon's wholly-owned subsidiary Padget Electronics is one of the few companies who have received PLI scheme approval from the Government of India (GOI)." As per the reports, Dixon is investing up to ₹400 crore over three years in the facility, which is likely to be inaugurated by the end of the year. In a bid to become an electronic manufacturing hub, India is pushing companies to start producing in the country.

TCS to run GeM portal from Oct 3; move to save ₹150 crore per year

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

TATA GROUP firm TCS will take reins of the Government e Marketplace (GeM) portal from existing management service provider Intellect Design Arena (IDA) and Infibeam with effect from October 3, 2023.

The IT major will take full control of the portal only from December 14, till then it will run the portal with the help of the existing service provider, whose contract ends on that day. The move will save the government ₹150 crore a year as the contract will be based on an entirely different payout model, PK Singh, CEO of GeM, told the media. The current service providers receive 0.215% on each transaction value with the maximum payout capped at ₹1.5 crore on a single transaction. "We realised this is perhaps not the right way – if you give incentive based on a certain percentage of the transaction value, the focus will be more on bigger transactions. This goes against our philosophy of promoting smaller businesses," says the GeM CEO.

The new contract has linked the payouts to the number of transactions so that there is more incentive in having larger numbers of transactions rather than larger value of transactions. As per the new contract, TCS will receive ₹2,600 on each transaction of ₹5 lakh or more. The payout will be ₹80 on each transaction below ₹5 lakh.

As per the CEO of GeM, there is no possibility of runaway profit for management service provider if the GMV increases. GeM portal is used for online procurement of common use Goods and Services required by various government departments, organisations and PSUs. "It is a very well-devised plan, we have different stages of that. Now is the stage where TCS will be taking control of the website while simultaneously developing a new portal," the PK Singh told the media.

Retrospective tax demand on gaming firms legally untenable, say experts

MONIKA YADAV @ New Delhi

LEGAL experts are raising concerns about the demands placed on online gaming and gambling companies in India, totaling over ₹1 lakh crore (1 trillion), for goods and services tax (GST).

They believe these notices may not withstand legal scrutiny due to several reasons including the retrospective nature of the tax demands.

Experts argue that demanding taxes for past periods raises doubts about the legality of such actions. Moreover, these demands are seen as disregarding the well-established legal distinction between games of skill and games of chance. This distinction has been recognized and upheld by Supreme Court and High Court judgments in the past.

Sudipta Bhattacharjee, a partner at Khaitan & Co, said affected gaming companies would challenge these notices in their jurisdictional high courts. He added that the entire legal basis of the demands appears to be questionable and in violation of previous court rulings.

The notices claim that players participating in games of skill for monetary stakes amount to gambling based on the presence of three elements: the stake, an element of uncertainty, and a higher reward. However, legal experts argue that this test would classify any tournament or competition involving entry fees and prize money as gambling, even if the games played are purely skill-based, such as chess or cricket.

Experts highlight that the tax department seeks to collect GST amounts significantly higher than the total revenues earned by these companies, which appear legally inconsistent and arbitrary. As per Bhattacharjee, the companies may face challenges and delays in navigating through the litigation process, which in turn, would affect their funding and operations.

"Companies in receipt of such notices based on recent amendments, pertaining to past periods, will have to challenge the retrospective demands at the outset before the High Courts. The GST council and GoM took more than 2 years to deliberate and clarify the issue. This indicates that the underlying issue is not of non- compliance or breach but arises on account of lack of clarity," said Sashi Mathews of IndusLaw.

Employees' association announces bank strikes

ENS ECONOMIC BUREAU @ New Delhi

ALL India Bank Employees Association has decided to conduct a series of bank-wise, state-level and all India strikes from December 4 to January 20, 2024.

The strike is against acute shortage of banking staff and reluctance from banks to hire adequate employees, the union said in a statement.

The union announced a two-day strike from January 19-20, 2024, across the country in all banks, including private banks. Initially, employees from PNB, Punjab & Sind Bank, SBI, Bank of Baroda and Bank of India, Canara Bank, Central Bank of India, UCO bank, Indian Bank, Union Bank of India and Bank of Maharashtra have called strike from December 4-8. Later all employees in the union will strike across regions from January 2-6. They have also decided to call a strike on December 11 at all private banks.

In recent years, while the number of customers and total volume of business have increased, the consequent workload on the employees has gone up unbearably as they don't have adequate staff strength in the banks, the union alleged. The vacancies arising out of retirements, promotions, deaths are not being filled up and additional staff are not being provided in branches to cope up with the increase in business. Shortage of workforce is also adversely affecting the customer satisfaction and resulting in friction and complaints from the customers.

All India Bank Employees Association said there is a deliberate attempt on the part of the government and banks to reduce the number of employees in clerical and subordinate cadres in banks and to increase the number of supervisory staff.

Sift Code

In a day dominated by shooters, Sift shines brightest to win gold medal in women's 50m rifle 3 positions with world record mark

HANGZHOU, thanks to the picturesque West Lake (Xi Lake) that runs across the city, has inspired many poets. Legend has it that poets travelled to the place to get their creative juices flowing. In fact, the city has been governed by two poets, Bai Juyi and Su Dongpo.

Inside the 50m shooting range at the Fuyang Yinhu Sports Centre on Wednesday, Sift Kaur Samra composed haiku with a rifle in her hand. In time, shooters may well go on a pilgrimage trip to get inspired. Acrsoss four hours of shooting, Sift demolished the field and set a new world record enroute to one of the most dominating performances ever seen in a big final. When it was time for the last competition shot, her lead over China's Qiongyue Zhang was 7 points. Put it this way; the 22-year-old may have well shot that it with her eyes closed and still would have won gold. In the end, the margin of victory was 7.3.

Two hours after helping India win a team silver, an individual gold followed; the first non-team gold at this year's Games. By that alone, the value of this gold is likely to match up with most other performances in Hangzhou. That's even before you consider that this is India's first individual gold at this level ever. Heck, it's only the second ever won by an Indian woman (Rahi Sarnobat was the first in Jakarta) in an individual event.

It's even more remarkable when you consider the fact that her personal coach, Deepali Deshpande, cut a worried figure after their phone call on Tuesday night.

"We had a conversation last night," she told this daily. "She was feeling very loose, especially in kneeling. These things tend to happen because of the conditions. So I didn't know how she would shoot today (Wednesday). She didn't feel all that good. I asked her to make corrections but I'm not sure what she did."

In a metaphorical sense, her rifle caught fire. It was apparent from very early on she was shooting in a different postcode when compared to most of the others in the field. In qualifying, her first two series (both kneeling) was a 99 and a 98. In prone, it was two 100s. She finished with a 98 and a 99 in standing, her strongest. The end result was a 594 with 28 inner 10s to qualify joint first with Xia Siyu.

Like any good trailer, this whet the appetite for the main picture. After the kneeling stage, she was top with 154.6 points, 0.1 ahead of Zhang. Like an apex predator, once she saw blood, it was as good as over.

What helped Sift forget about Tuesday's concerns is her ability to 'compartmentalise'. "She has the ability to keep aside all negativity and move on," was how Deepali put it. That's true. One only had to listen to Sift's thoughts as she rattled through the ammo inside the large hall, slightly bigger than an Olympic-sized swimming pool. "I didn't know that (first individual gold in 50m 3 positions," she told media after her medal. "I was just focusing on my shots (explaining her thought process) and thinking that I have to win. I wanted to be the first person to win individual gold at this year's Games. I was just thinking about that."

Just to further espouse her coach's point, Sift, who won India an Olympic quota in this event not too long ago, believed that she wasn't all that good in the early stages of the final. "I wasn't that good in the first five shots in the kneeling stage. But I looked around and saw that others were also not that good so I knew I could cover it up."

She was sixth after the first five shots. She went from sixth to first after the next 10 shots. Part of her gameplan was to see if she could be among the top shooters after the kneeling section. "We knew that if I get a lead in the first section, I can maintain it in the other sections. Standing is my strongest so I knew that if I could cover my kneeling..."

One of the most surprising aspects about Sift's already rapid rise is she was an 'accidental shooter'. She could have become a doctor (she cracked NEET but dropped out after an year of MBBS). In an alternate life, she may well have been a 10m rifle exponent. "50m wasn't my thing," she said. "I started off with 10m in 2015-16, 50m only happened in 2019. I came into shooting by accident. A cousin who was into shot-gun introduced me. In my first state (event), I was good. That's how I started my career."

It may be nascent but it's already had an apogee of sorts. In the eyes of Deepali, this is one of the best ever performances by an Indian shooter at the Asian Games. "Whatever she did today is a statement. I feel that it's all in the mind. Sift is such a girl that she doesn't think about anything else apart from the target (when she's shooting)."

Off the range, 'she's a typical fun-loving Punjabi kid,' says Deepali. "She's always happy but that's her strength also. She always goes again. She will express her concern but forgets about it. That is the greatest strength for a shooter and Sift is blessed with that.

"She also plays a lot of Punjabi songs in the range. In fact, whenever she hears Hindi songs, she goes 'arey, kyun Hindi gaane sunte rahte ho (why do you keep listening to Hindi songs?' She's a very sweet girl."

For four hours or so on Wednesday, she showed why she's the next cab of the rank in Indian shooting.

Anant for India, Jeet for skeet

ANMOL GURUNG @Chennai

SKEET shooting has not been India's forte. Medals were hard to come by in top international meets. Shooters were lacking in self belief and in recent times there has been a shift. Shooters started showing acumen but they are without a coach right now. The medal at the Asian Games is likely to give the skeet shooters a big shot in the arm.

Indian shooters capturing as many as seven medals including two gold on Day 4 was not a massive surprise. Rifle shooter, Sift Kaur Samra, was beyond a shadow of a doubt the standout star with a world record-shattering output. Another noteworthy medal was the silver captured by skeet shooter Anantjeet Singh Naruka.

After navigating the qualifying hurdle, Anantjeet was up against a couple of heavyweights of the sport in the six-man final on Wednesday. But he held his own to put up a fine finish, eventually ending up second behind two-time Olympic medallist Abdullah Al-Rashidi, who put up a flawless performance. Al-Rashidi, who received plenty of attention after pocketing a bronze medal while sporting an Arsenal jersey at the age of 57 in 2020 Olympics, didn't miss a single target and in the process, equalled all the records (World Record, Games Record, Asian Record).

Anantjeet Singh Naruka | PTI

If not for Al-Rashidi's masterclass, Anantjeet could have easily walked away with a gold medal. Eventually, the Jaipur shooter finished ahead of Nasser Al-Attiya, another veteran who's a former Olympic medallist. Anantjeet had just two misses and finished with a tally of 58 (out of 60). In the recently-held World Championships, the winner, Efthimios Mitas, had won with a tally of 56. But one must remember that the competition at the world level involves a different level of pressure.

Nevertheless, this silver is a timely one for Anantjeet, who has been practicing the sport since 2012. This is his first medal at the senior international level. Son of former shooter Dalpat Singh, Anantjeet had displayed plenty of promise during his junior days before enduring a difficult period during the transition phase (junior to senior). Him winning a medal for the country ahead of more-established shooters might come across as a surprise but not to those who have seen him train up close. "Winning an Asiad medal is a big achievement for him and for our country. Shooting 58 (out of 60) is world class," Mairaj Ahmad Khan, first skeet shooter to represent the country in the Olympics, was effusive in his praise. "Technique, fitness and hard working," Mairaj said, when talking about things that stood out in his eyes.

National coach Krishna Kumar had also had high hopes. "He has been averaging around 120 in recent times and I was hoping that he'll make the cut. He had also done exceptionally well during the Bhopal national trials." Anantjeet shot 121 in the qualification stage before going on to medal.

Krishna is someone who has seen Anant Jeet evolve over the years. He's encouraged in the manner he has developed, both mentally and physically and expects him to build on this performance. "He is physically strong and has become more determined. I can see him doing well in the days to come."

Anantjeet's effort just bolsters India's recent rise in the discipline. For many years, it seemed like Mairaj was waging a lone battle, especially in skeet. Now, there are some noteworthy challengers for podium finishes at the elite level.

Esha shines

ENS @Chennai

THE women's 25m pistol final was anything but smooth sailing. There were two interruptions including one lengthy stoppage of more than 10 minutes when the officials had to sort out a malfunctioning target system. In the middle of this, Esha Singh was fighting her own personal battle to avoid elimination.

Finding herself sixth after the first 10 competition shots in the final, she needed to go big. Or she was going home. Go big was what she did; she found the target on nine of her next 10 shots to zoom up to third place.

She hit two perfect five-on-fives later on in the competition even as the others struggled to find their rhythm — including compatriot Manu Bhaker — amid the stoppages. The end result meant she walked with a silver medal.

Vishnu avatar: Navigating local waterways to bronze in sailing

KALYANI MANGALE @ Chennai

WAARI, the 450km walk from Alandi (near Pune) to Pandharpur in Solapur, holds immense religious and cultural significance for the people of Maharashtra. Inspired by that voyage, Dr. Vishwas Yevale, a passionate sailor, booted the concept of the Jal Dindi in kayaks, dinghies, sculls, army BAUTs, and sailboats over the same route. Started with the purpose of educating the villagers, also created a few core memories for India's future bronze medallist at the Asian Games in Vishnu Saravanan.

"It's a 12-day expedition of a sort through waterways from Alandi to Pandharpur in October," Vishnu's father, Ramachandran Saravanan, a former sailor himself told this daily from Mumbai. "We did the Jal Dindi in 2007. And Vishnu accompanied me in that. During Jal Dindi, he sailed on the same class of boat (ILCA7) in which he won bronze medal. Once we would stop at the end of the day, he even used to sleep on that boat. Extreme heat caused some problems, but he completed the expedition with me."

"I did that Dindi not by conventional route, and Dnyaneshwar Maharaja and Vithoba gave blessings to my boy. While I was part of the Dindi, who would have thought that Vishnu would win a medal for India some day," R Saravanan added. Though the Armyman had to give up competitive sailing but when it came to his kids, Vishnu and Ramya, who missed a chance to win a medal in their first-ever Asian Games as she finished fourth in the Mixed Multihull - Nacra 17 event in Hangzhou -- he supported them to the hilt. "I had to quit sailing because of unfavourable conditions but I didn't think twice when it came to my children. With Vishnu, I started when he was 7 and a half years old, and with Ramya when she was eight."

Vishnu Saravanan (L) with sister Ramya

Once Vishnu started sailing with his father, there was no looking back. He also had another Asian Games medallist to look up to as well. "I used to take him with me on my single windsurfer boat. Even when there was no space for another person on that boat, Vishnu used to accompany me. He wasn't even that good a swimmer at that age, but he still insisted on coming with me. At that time, Arjuna Awardee Rajesh Choudhary (who won the Bronze medal in the 2002 Busan Asian Games and 2006 Doha Asian Games) used to sail with me. He used to hold the mast of Rajesh's boat (Laser Radial class) and sail with him. But he never feared water."

All of those wishes and hard work over the years helped Vishnu secure a Bronze medal for India even after the final medal race was cancelled. "The last race, the medal race, could not be completed because the wind was not good enough," Captain Jitendra Dixit, joint secretary general of the Yachting Association of India, said from Hangzhou. "The score remained the same as yesterday and the final positions were awarded on that basis. Unfortunately, he had one bad race where he had to retire because of technical grounds. He was given the penalty for the technical fault, which means the points for that race are calculated as participants from that race + 1. That made a big dent in his chances, otherwise, he was in contention for a gold medal as well. He was in good form in the last few races, if the medal race had happened, maybe there was a scope for a silver or even gold medal." In a race where the technical penalty reduced his opportunity to finish closer to the top, Vishnu managed to grab a bronze. Ramachandran believes many entities have put faith in his son. "Sail Coach, sailing academy in Malta, has assisted him. Initially, the Army took up the monetary load with me. Now, the Sports Authority of India and the Yachting Association of India have also stood behind him through thick and thin."

Chepauk gets rain covered for WC

GOMESH S @ Chennai

THE Tamil Nadu Cricket Association (TNCA) missed out on the chance of hosting one of the 2023 ICC Men's ODI World Cup semifinals in November because of the North East monsoon. Among the nine venues that host five games, the MA Chidambaram Stadium in Chennai is one of the two to host all their matches in October, trying to ensure that they do not have shortened clashes.

However, they have been forced to look skywards because of surplus rainfall during the south east monsoon, which began its withdrawal from Rajasthan a few days ago. On Monday, the city recorded a new high in terms of rain during the South East monsoon season (over 88cm, already 40cm above normal). Taking all this into account, the TNCA have prepared on all fronts to ensure smooth conduct of play come October 8 when India will take on Australia in their opening game of the tournament. Two new super soppers, amenities to cover the entire field of play if need be, indoor training facilities — they have tried to cover it all. Even if it pours down continuously for hours, they expect the play to resume in 90 minutes after the rain. "We already have two super soppers and now, we bought a couple more. We have four super soppers which is generally not the case in any venue. We also have the amenities to cover the entire field of play if there is heavy rain," a TNCA official said. Pakistan, Afghanistan and New Zealand have two ties with each team staying in the city for at least a week. The Pakistan-Afghanistan (Oct 23) and Pakistan-South Africa (Oct 27) games. The indoor training facilities above the players' dressing room will come in handy to ensure their training isn't affected between matches. "We have a indoor facility where four players can practice at a time with four bowling machines and floodlights that provide a similar lux as that of the ones in the ground," said the official.

Man United shows Crystal class with impressive win

AGENCIES @London

MANCHESTER United kept the critics at bay as they cruised into the League Cup fourth round with a 3-0 win against Crystal Palace on Tuesday.

United boss Erik ten Hag and his players have been under fire after a disappointing start to the season. But, following Saturday's narrow Premier League victory at Burnley, they secured a second successive win to ease the pressure at least a little. Alejandro Garnacho put them ahead in the first half and Casemiro doubled the lead before the interval, with Anthony Martial sealing the victory after the break.

When United lifted the League Cup in February to end a six-year trophy drought, it was seen as the start of a new era of success at Old Trafford.

Instead, United have been engulfed by a series of problems on and off the pitch. Having lost three of their first five league games, Ten Hag was under scrutiny until the last four days offered a ray of hope.

Natural therapies help patient with coronary disease

JINDAL Naturecure Institute (JNI), a naturopathic institute known for its holistic approach to healthcare, celebrated a success story. Vipul Sinha (name changed), a 48-year-old patient from Dubai, visited JNI seeking relief from coronary artery disease and diabetes mellitus. After 12 days of personalised naturopathic treatments, Sinha experienced significant improvements in his health, showcasing the potential of natural therapies.

Explaining the rationale behind the treatments, Dr Babina NM, chief medical officer, JNI, said, "Each therapy was selected to address specific aspects of Sinha's health condition. For instance, mud pack was employed to enhance abdominal organ function and regulate body heat, while enema served to eliminate toxins. Therapies like massages played a crucial role in muscle toning, improved circulation, and reduced cardiac load. The comprehensive diet plan focused on detoxification, diabetes control, and weight management."

GAME PLAN

Ahead of the 2023 Men's Cricket World Cup, Team Netherlands – currently in B'luru – is preparing extensively for the tournament. Captain Scott Edwards and coach Ryan Cook speak to CE about practising with local talent and their expectations from the tournament

DESE GOWDA

TEAM Netherlands' dream of making it into the 2023 ICC Cricket Men's World Cup went down to the wire, as it battled seven other national teams, each vying for a single place among the ten teams that take part in the World Cup, scheduled to be held in the next couple of months in India. Following a loss to Sri Lanka, the 'Flying Dutchmen' beat Scotland by four wickets at a nail-biting Super Sixes Stage fixture to secure a spot at the 2023 World Cup.

Currently in Bengaluru, undergoing intense training in preparation for the prestigious tournament, the team is preparing for their first warm-up match against Australia on September 30. Delighted about the team having qualified for the World Cup, Netherlands coach Ryan Cook and captain Scott Edwards, are now pushing the team to perform their best. "It was a fantastic achievement from the guys to get us here in the first place. We just want to go ahead and put our best foot forward," says Cook, with Edwards adding, "We probably should have won against Sri Lanka but obviously we won the game against Scotland. It was an emotional tournament and I am immensely proud of how the boys went about it."

As part of their preparations for the World Cup, the Dutchmen have been playing against local teams, most notably Team Karnataka. Cook believes given some of the players in the Karnataka team also play in the Indian Premier League (IPL), the experience of playing against them would come in handy. "Given all the fixtures that have been taking place around the world and various teams playing against each other, we have had to make space for ourselves to fit into the schedules. So, we got our own fixtures, playing against some of the local teams here. The Karnataka team is obviously a really strong team, so playing against them is really great for our preparation ahead of the four major warm-up matches. We hope to take the lessons we've learned from those games and take them to the World Cup," explains the 51-year-old, who also serves as Sunrisers Hyderabad's assistant coach in the IPL.

With hopes of making it into the semi-finals, Team Netherlands is optimistic about their chances, especially since they get to play some of the toughest teams in the tournament during the practice stage, thereby helping set a baseline in performance.

"We're probably the luckiest team in the World Cup in terms of our practice schedules. We are playing probably two of the favourites going into the tournament – India and Australia. It'll be some tough fixtures, but it'll give us a good opportunity to set ourselves a standard for the tournament," says Edwards, who also expresses his love for Bengaluru. "I come here a bit more often because the facilities are amazing, and the people everywhere are so friendly and welcoming. So I've loved my time here and all the boys have as well. Hopefully, we'll have more tours here in the future," he adds.

As the definite underdogs going up against some of the greatest teams in cricketing history, Cook hopes that the Indian public adopts Team Netherlands as their second team and cheers them on. "Coming to India is always amazing because the people here love cricket and it's almost a religion. We hope that the Indian public will maybe get behind us as their second team and they can support us throughout the tournament," he concludes.

Researcher and writer Anirudh Kanisetti, who was awarded The New Indian Express' Ramnath Goenka Sahithya Samman for Best Non-Fiction work, speaks about his love for history and the debut book getting an OTT adaptation

Bringing history to life

RESHMI CHAKRAVORTY

A researcher, writer, and the host of podcasts Echoes of India: A History and YUDDHA: The Indian Military History Podcast, Anirudh Kanisetti has captured the hearts and minds of many with his debut book Lords of the Deccan: Southern India from the Chalukyas to Cholas. The book garnered widespread acclaim and got him accolades such as the Yuva Puraskar by the Sahitya Akademi. But that's not all. At the very first edition of The New Indian Express' Ramnath Goenka Sahithya Samman announced at the Odisha Literary Festival 2023, he was awarded as the winner of Best Non-Fiction category. CE got in touch with the scholar to know more about his excitement bagging the award, love for history and his thoughts on his book getting an OTT adaptation.

Q&A

What was your reaction to winning the award?

I did not know I was nominated. So, it was a wonderful surprise. I was especially touched by how much attention to detail there was. When I was called up on the stage, there was a video playing, a voiceover about myself and my career with images from my podcast and so on.

What inspired you to become an author?

It was one of the many side projects that I was tinkering with in college. I used to play a lot of history games and through that, I developed a curiosity about India's history. Initially, I used to play a lot of games about ancient Greece and Rome and I would find a lot of material online about them. But when I started to get curious about ancient India, there wasn't a lot of stuff. So, I found myself reading academic works and then experimenting with writing blog posts to try and bring those times to life. And I found that not just me, but my hostel mates and a few other folks that I shared it with also enjoyed it. So, I realised I had a flair for it. That's how I started writing history.

And as far as penning the Lords of the Deccan: Southern India from the Chalukyas to the Cholas, it happened when I was in Bengaluru during my first job. I went to a popular bookstore and asked them if they had any books about the history of Karnataka, the history of the Deccan, because I wanted to know more about my adopted city. To my utter surprise, they had nothing. I had read vaguely about the Chalukyas and Rashtrakutas, but there were no accessible popular history works that really delved into the period. That's when I realised that I would have to do it myself.

It must have taken a lot of research and long hours...

It was very complicated. It changed a lot over the years. I was writing the book while also making a podcast and also doing a full-time job. So pretty much any time that I was awake, I was reading, I was looking at inscriptions, I was reading academic works, either for my podcast or for my book. But I feel like at least for the first year or so, it was just the pure thrill of discovering this period and knowing that I was going to be writing perhaps the first accessible book about it for an Indian audience in many decades. I think that kept me going through writing the first draft. And the first draft, of course, wasn't very good. My editor came back after reading it and said, "Anirudh, you have to completely change this. You need to shorten the length by 40,000 words. And you need to make the narrative a lot clearer because it's going off a lot of different tangents." After the first two years of writing, it took almost two years to satisfactorily edit it, iron out the errors and double, triple check my research. So the entire process took about four years.

Actor-producer Rana Daggubati recently announced an OTT adaptation of Lords of the Deccan...

I think that it'll be just what's needed to bring the stories of this region to a much bigger audience. And given the Telugu film industry's inimitable way of bringing to life these larger-than-life characters, it's going to be really exciting. I can't wait to see how it turns out.

Any advice for budding authors or historians?

They should write about history for themselves and constantly try to put their ideas and their views out there in the world rather than doing it necessarily with an end goal in mind. Because working for one's passion is what draws other passionate people to you and that's what allows you to grow and think in new ways. Also, be merciless in editing your writing.

Future plans.

When I was at the award ceremony, I kept exploring the city. I was amazed at just how much history Odisha has and yet is barely known to people outside. I'm thrilled and excited to be bringing these his- t o r i e s to life and writing about them for people to read and enjoy. I'm working on a new history of the Chola world that I hope will be ready to publish next year. I'm trying to bring not just the course to life which is something I focussed on in my first book, but also to bring the entire world to life – people living in the villages, building the irrigation systems, the women who are patronising temples, the men who are fighting on the battlefield – an enormous mosaic of all the people who lived in this extraordinary time.

1 I can't wake up early and end up skipping my workouts. Are late-night workouts effective?

Any time is a good time for exercise. You may think that a late-night workout will have you so energised and you won't be able to slow down, but the effects are quite the opposite. Research has shown that exercise helps you sleep deeper and longer. Please continue to exercise whenever you find time. It also helps drain out your daily stress and as an added bonus you'll wake up feeling refreshed.

2 Last month I went for a trek and due to carrying a heavy backpack, I persistently got shoulder and lower back pain. Please suggest what to do about it.

Yes, the extra load on your shoulders make you lean forward and place stress on your lower back too, which will lead to aches and muscle strain. You need to strengthen your back and shoulders and increase muscle mass by doing weight-training exercises. Learn the exercises from a professional trainer and do them on alternate days. Since you are already in pain, don't try to self-assist, take professional help.

3 I am a working professional but have a very sedentary lifestyle due to which I have developed belly and arm fat. Can you please guide me where to begin working on it?

Mindful eating will help you reduce belly fat. 70 per cent of weight loss comes from the diet. So watch what you eat. Say no to junk food, fast food, pastries, deep-fried food, sweets, or colas. Consume protein, fibre and plenty of fruits and veggies as this boosts metabolism and gives you a feeling of fullness. Exercise every day and drink plenty of water. Also, try taking small breaks from your desk. Even if it's for five minutes or just to get a glass of water, do it.

Preventive cardiovascular health checks you should look into this World Heart Day

DR K P SRIHARI DAS

EVERY cloud has a silver lining – a phrase that is often used to suggest that even in the darkest of times, there is always something positive to be found. The human race went through its greatest health crisis due to Covid-19 from 2020 to 2022. There was an alarming increase in cardiovascular deaths post-Covid-19 pandemic. But this has also led to an increase in public health consciousness with more people being aware of the need for regular health checks, especially cardiac check-ups.

In other words, the pandemic was a wake-up call for many people, who realised that they need to take better care of their health. This increased awareness could help identify and address cardiovascular problems early on, resulting in a decrease in cardiovascular deaths in the long run.

Take Charge of Your Heart Health: The slogan for this year's World Heart Day is Use Heart, Know Heart. This is very appropriate as we notice a lot of patients going back to their family, friends, and office circle and talking about the need for regular heart check-ups. The increased awareness of heart health has translated into more apartment associations and colleges requesting CPR demonstrations.

Post-Pandemic Trends Among People in Cardiovascular Health:

As medical professionals, one trend that we have seen for the past few years is that more and more people are undergoing regular preventive health checks, especially cardiac checks such as ECG (electrocardiogram), Echo (echocardiogram), Exercise stress test – treadmill test (TMT), and cholesterol tests. Surprisingly, more people in their 20s and 30s are seen to opt for these checks than ever before.

As a result of these preventive checks, we have been able to pick up many patients with underlying heart disease who had no prior symptoms or family history of heart-related conditions. Echocardiogram tests have identified features of high blood pressure in some who were not even aware that they were hypertensive. They were started on appropriate treatment with lifestyle modification, thereby preventing the complications of high BP.

Another cause of concern in recent years is the increase in heart attacks among young individuals while exercising at the gym. A detailed cardiac evaluation including ECG, Echo, and Exercise stress test will definitely reduce the incidence of these unfortunate events.

Exercise stress tests have also been positive in quite a few otherwise healthy individuals with a family history of heart disease. At our hospital, many of these patients who were found with heart issues underwent appropriate coronary interventions in time to prevent heart attacks.

Takeaway

On this World Heart Day 2023 (Sept 29), let us all take a pledge to educate one and all on the need for regular health checks, good eating habits, regular exercise, yoga, meditation, good sleep, and avoiding smoking and tobacco use so that we can all be heart-healthy.

Kids and kidney woes

DR ABI ABRAHAM M

NOWADAYS, junk food is available in every nook and cranny, and it's hard to resist for children and the youth. It is often cautioned that consuming junk food regularly can negatively impact our general health.

Now, what's worrying is that kidney diseases are increasingly rising among children. Diet, especially the consumption of junk food, plays a significant role here.

Excessive salt can harm the kidneys and heart, while excessive sugar can lead to obesity and diabetes.

Consuming too much animal protein can make your blood too acidic, potentially damaging your kidneys.

Sedentary lifestyles, common among game-addicted kids and youngsters, can also lead to poor sleep quality and lifestyle diseases.

Other conditions affecting children

Birth defects of the kidney and the urinary tract are among the major causes of kidney diseases in children.

Urine blockage or reflux: If the passage of urine is obstructed, the child will not be able to pass urine freely, and urine can flow back into the kidney and cause damage.

Nephrotic syndrome: This condition develops when the filters in the kidney become leaky or damaged, allowing the passage of protein into the urine. This is probably the most important type of kidney disease in children.

Nephritis: This is a condition that occurs when the filters (glomeruli) are inflamed, leading to the retention of water in the body, and the urine can become dark and reddish.

Hereditary diseases: This condition occurs when the parent passes the condition to the children.

Systemic diseases: Some autoimmune diseases can cause kidney disease (lupus erythematosus).

General symptoms

Children in the early stages of kidney disease may not have any symptoms. Mentioned below are some of the symptoms.

- Swelling of the feet, legs, and face
- High blood pressure
- Foamy urine
- Pink or cola-coloured urine
- Dribbling of urine and reduced urine flow
- Frequent urination

Diagnosis

- Medical history and physical examinations
- Urine tests for protein and blood cells
- Blood tests to assess kidney functions
- Ultrasound imaging to identify any abnormalities
- Biopsy may be required in some cases
- Genetic tests may be helpful in some conditions

Treatment

Depending on the specific condition and its severity, different treatments are available for children with kidney disease.

Medication: Several kidney conditions can be managed with drugs that reduce inflammation, control symptoms, or, in the case of autoimmune disorders, suppress the immune system.

Dietary changes: To manage symptoms and halt the progression of the disease, a controlled diet with limits on sodium, protein, and potassium intake may be required.

Dialysis: Peritoneal dialysis may be required in extreme cases where the kidneys are unable to function properly.

Kidney transplant: For some young patients with advanced kidney disease, a kidney transplant may be the best option.

Yash 19

to kickstart in November; official announcement to be out soon

Yash and his team are presently in London for location-scouting, where they also met celebrated stunt choreographer JJ Perry

A SHARADHAA

After the monumental success of KGF Chapters 1 and 2, Yash laid low for a long time about his next, tentatively known as Yash 19. Slowly, it was revealed that the project will be backed by KVN Productions, and it will be directed by National Award-winning filmmaker Geethu Mohandas.

While an official announcement about the project is yet to be made, Yash is leaving no stone unturned and has diligently been working behind the scenes, orchestrating plans for mounting a multilingual film that will be worth the wait.

Sources reveal that the actor and his team are currently immersed in meticulous preparations and have embarked on an extensive journey to scout for locations. Currently, Yash and his crew are in London for a two-week scouting expedition. Amidst his work, Yash has met renowned Hollywood stunt choreographer and director JJ Perry. The picture shared by the ace choreographer has sent the internet into a frenzy. It is not known if Perry is part of the project. Apart from London, Yash has also gone to locations like Sri Lanka for the pre-production of the project.

Meanwhile, sources reveal that the project is primed to commence in the month of November. Yash 19 is expected to be a film that will transcend linguistic boundaries, and will potentially make quite a mark in the English-speaking world too. that the project will be one to remember.

The production house intends to unveil the new release date of Prabhas-starrer this coming weekend, setting the stage for a potential clash with Shahrukh Khan's Dunki

Hombale Films to release Salaar and Yuva on the same date

CE FEATURES

If all had gone as planned, Prabhas' much-anticipated Salaar, directed by Prashanth Neel, would have graced theatres worldwide today. However, due to unforeseen circumstances, the production house pushed back the release date. Now, the makers are all set to officially announce the release date this weekend.

Meanwhile, our reliable source indicates that the highly-anticipated multilingual project is now slated for a global release on December 22. Interestingly, this also means Salaar will clash with Shahrukh Khan's much-awaited Dunki, directed by Rajkumar Hirani.

Incidentally, Hombale Films had also announced December 22 to be the release date of Santhosh Anandram's Yuva, which is the launchpad for actor Yuvarajkumar. According to our source, they intend to stick to the release plan. If this holds true, it promises to be a double treat for the Kannada audience, offering them the chance to watch two films – one starring the iconic Prabhas and the other featuring the young talent, Yuvarajkumar coming from the Rajkumar clan. An official announcement this weekend should provide clarity. There's also speculation that Dhruva Sarja's Martin may be eyeing the same date. If this pans out, the Christmas season is sure to become a festive cinematic celebration.

Salaar also stars Shruti Haasan, Prithviraj Sukumaran, Jagapathi Babu, Tinnu Anand, Sriya Reddy, and Pramod. The film has Bhuvan Gowda as cameraman and Ravi Basrur scoring the music. On the other hand, Yuvarajkumar's maiden venture, Yuva stars Sapthami Gowda as the female lead.

'LOVE IS MY SIGNATURE STYLE AND STRENGTH'

...says Golden Star Ganesh, as he talks about his upcoming film, Baanadariyalli with director Preetham Gubbi, playing a cricketer and his take on romance

CE FEATURES

When it comes to romance, who better than actor Ganesh can share his views on love? The Golden-Star, who redefined romance with films like Mungaru Male and Gaalipata, continues this trend with Baanadariyalli, which is set to have a grand release today. Speaking about love, he states that everyone has a unique interpretation and perception of this profound emotion. "In my opinion, love cannot be measured, and that's precisely why it can be so painful," he says.

Coming to Baanadariyalli, directed by Preetham, Ganesh says, "This is not a typical cinematic love story when a girl leaves, it is by default followed by a heartbreak. Audiences will travel along the screenplay and it has ample amount of comedy," says Ganesh, who goes on to share what keeps him youthful and whether he enjoys playing such roles. "To embody romance, one doesn't need to be young," he says. "I maintain my youth through regular exercise, and that reflects on screen. While I've explored romantic genres to a certain extent, my inclination is shifting towards thrillers and crime stories."

Ganesh reveals his openness to diverse scripts, emphasising that his films will always contain an essence of love. "Love is my signature style and strength, something I can't part with, nor will it ever leave me," he says.

Regarding his collaboration with director Preetham once again for Baanadariyalli, Ganesh remarks, "Preetham is unshakable in his commitment to love stories. He recently narrated a script that initially seemed like a thriller but turned out to be a romance. It seems that after ten years, he may deviate from his path, but romance will be at the core of his storytelling," he chuckles.

In Baanadariyalli, Ganesh portrays a cricketer, a game he enjoys both on and off the screen. "I have a passion for cricket, and incorporating it into the script was a delightful experience. It's a game I've cherished since childhood."

When asked if love stories have evolved significantly with time, Ganesh responds, "Love stories indeed evolve, but their connection with the audience always remains strong. Making love stories is a challenge, but they become hits when they connect with the audience on an emotional level. In the past, romance equated to heroines running around trees, but today's films delve deeper into the complexity and depth of love. So, yes, they have evolved."

Ganesh shares that sacrifice isn't his favourite aspect of love. "The excitement lies in the falling in love part and little moments in romance. However, the most relished part of love is subjective."

While Ganesh has shared screen space with senior actor Rangayana Raghu before, this marks his first collaboration with Rukmini Vasanth and Reeshma Nanaiah. According to the Golden Star, both actors have delivered outstanding performances. "Rukmini brings a captivating innocence to her character, making even the most complicated role seem effortless. Reeshma is lively and humorous. Every actor has made an equal contribution, along with the music by Arjun Janya and the cinematography by Abhilash Kalathi," he signs off.

I HAVE NOW DECIDED TO TAKE ACTING MORE SERIOUSLY: LEKHA CHANDRA

CE FEATURES

It was my sister's desire to see me in the world of cinema, and she was the one who encouraged me to take up acting. However, after a few films, I found myself in a dilemma and was experiencing a mix of emotions about whether I should continue in this field. During my break, I realised how much I missed being in front of the camera. Now that I'm back, I've decided to take acting seriously and as a profession," says Lekha Chandra. The actor, who was last seen in Namo Bhootatma 2, is eagerly anticipating the release of her upcoming film, Fighter, starring Vinod Prabhakar. The film is scheduled to hit theatres on October 6. Directed by Nutan Umesh and also starring Pavana Gowda, the film's trailer is set to be released on September 31.

Fighter, with Vinod Prabhakar in the lead role, is being promoted as an action entertainer. When asked about her role's significance in such films, Lekha responds, "Yes, Fighter may give the impression that it's a hero-centric film with the heroine having little to do. However, in this film, the hero is fighting for a cause, and the plot revolves around us. As the female lead, I bring a twist to the storyline. I deliver most of the dialogues in the film," says Lekha, adding, "I play the role of a painter, which makes my character vibrant on screen. Overall, the role looks promising and colourful."

Lekha Chandra, who is increasingly serious about her craft, believes it's time for her to be recognised as an artiste erather than just a commercial heroine. "Today, content has captured the audience's attention, and I aim to work on characters that resonate with them."

In addition to Fighter, Lekha Chandra is also excited about Veera Putra, where she is paired opposite Vijay Surya. "I have another project in the final stages of confirmation and am eagerly awaiting an official announcement from the production end," she says.

The film is bankrolled by Somashekar Kattigenahalli's Akash Enterprises and has music composed by Guru Kiran. Fighter also marks the return of yesteryear's actor, Nirosha, and also consists of Sharath Lohitashwa, and Prathap Kuri, in key roles.
